GRACE, AWE, MAJESTY MARK END OF 'ROCK'

FORCES VOTE WINS SEAT FOR LIBERAL

The vote in from Canada's armed forces cost the Conservatives one seat by giving Liberal James M. Forgie a heavy endorsement in Ontario's Renfrew North, upsetting the narrow majority won Monday by Tory candidate Stanley J. Hunt.

The new Commons standing based on the service-plus-civilian vote: Progressive Conservatives 208, Liberals 49 and CCF 8. (See story, Page 3.)

Wolves Edge Portsmouth

LONDON (AP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers moved near the English League soccer championship today with a 1-0 victory over lowly Portsmouth — a victory that gave the Wolves a five-point lead as the season moved into its final stages.

A first-half penalty goal by halfback Edwin Clapp clinched both points for Wolves and gave the leaders a total of 57 points.

A LAST GRAND GESTURE

Ripple Rock Went Off With Incredible Beauty

By STUART HEATE

CAMPBELL RIVER — Like a veteran performer determined to give his best in his farewell appearance, Old Man Ripple Rock staged a death scene today that was truly memorable.

Out of the fatal, cataclysmic blow came incredible beauty.

Hardened newsmen gasped audibly as the grey-black design hung for seconds in the sky, as though posing for the funeral pictures.

The first violent upsurge of spume and rock seemed followed by a second and yet a third, fractions of a second apart. But the three pinnacles of salt water, acid and debris merged perfectly into a pattern that might have been painstakingly assembled by an artist.

Photographers who feared they might miff the now-or-never picture found they had time for five or six exposures.

It was estimated the blast took four seconds to reach its zenith and five to descend.

A clear wave of exhilaration swept over the press bunker at the awesome combination of the power and the glory.

One reporter started applauding.

It was a form of tribute, unconscious and therefore doubly meaningful, to the engineers who had toiled four years to bring about this monumental moment of destruction.

Rain Squall Ripple's Last Fling?

By LLOYD BAKER
Times City Editor

CAMPBELL RIVER — You'd have thought the sky had shaken loose . . .

Seconds after the giant plume of the Ripple Rock blast had arced downward, and shock waves were chopping at the surrounding shoreline, the rain came.

For 30 minutes the Campbell River was given a heavy drenching and it left you wondering.

Was it a natural squall that had been threatening since daybreak? Would it have hit if the destruction of "Big Rip" had been delayed a day?

Or had all that man-made power under the waters of Seymour Narrows double-crossed the elements and brought one of the heaviest downpours the district had seen in many months?

The people of Campbell River like to think it was that old rock's final fling. And they'll remember the rain along with the awesome picture of the blast itself.

In a bunker just over a mile from the explosion, centre press observers felt the blast before they saw anything.

Perhaps a second and one-half passed after the count-down ended and the "fire" order

And then, of course, there wuz all those people who held rock and ripple parties in front of their TV sets this morning.

Ripple Rock In Spectacular Death Display

Early Opinions Hint Success

By DON INGHAM, Times Staff Reporter

CAMPBELL RIVER — A huge, grey cloud, rising slowly 800 feet into a pattern with all the symmetry of a maple leaf, today marked the almost certain end of Ripple Rock as a navigation menace.

Final surveys have not been made, but in the opinion of Dr. Victor Dolmage, Vancouver, one of the engineers who master-minded this $3,100,000 project in Seymour Narrows, the removal of the top 40 feet of the rock with 1,375 tons of high explosive was a success.

Dr. Dolmage, the man who pressed the button that fired this largest peace-time non-atomic blast, spoke from a steel and concrete bunker on Quadra Island, just 2,500 feet from the centre of the mighty blast.

"It is the impression of all of us here that it was a success," Dr. Dolmage said just minutes after the blast.

7,000 Feet Away

Four of us, from The Victoria Daily Times, watched the blast from a heavily-timbered bunker covered with a foot of earth, 7,000 feet due south of the blast centre.

Just a split second after the count-down — "three, two, one, fire" — the seething surface of the water over the rock rose with awesome majesty.

Rock was hurled 1,000 feet into the air, and fragments could be seen flying as far away as 1,500 feet from the centre of the blast.

Some clearly landed on Quadra and Maud Islands.

After the rock, a cloud of water, steam, gas, and debris spread throughout the 2,500-foot width of the Narrows, completely blocking the view to the north.

TV SHOW OF EXPLOSION BY CBC HELD 'GREATEST'

TV viewers were unanimous in calling the CBC coverage one of the greatest jobs of on-the-spot camera work ever seen.

The big, 25-inch telescope lens brought the blast right into thousands of living rooms.

A brief documentary film preceding the explosion showed how the tunnelling was done, and provided excellent background.

RIPPLES FROM THE ROCK

Sea birds appeared to survive the blast. They were seen flying overhead before the shock wave had died down, and, as the "tidal waves" of water flowed, several of the birds rode in the troughs.

Prior to the blast, some people "guesstimated" that the waves would be 20 feet high.

Said CBC announcer Bill Herbert: "I hope they're wrong."

The press-radio-TV bunker was only 20 feet above water.

The tense final seconds of the countdown were dramatized for radio and TV listeners by the steady beeps in the background of the Dominion Observatory time signal.

At Painter's famous fishing lodge all the pictures of famous people who have caught big tyes, were removed from the walls and chalk numbers marked up to guide replacement after the blast.

The tremendous explosion shook Campbell River, eight miles south.

The Canadian Press reported houses shuddered "for a split moment" but there was no other recognizable effect.

Rain began to fall seconds after the blast exploded 500 feet into the air.

It was believed the concussion may have literally "shaken loose" the moisture from scattered clouds.

The federal government gave away B.C. Centennial silver dollars to reporters and photographers at a press conference Friday at which federal works department officials briefed the press on arrangements.

The 75 or so accredited press representatives were obliged to sign a document releasing the federal government from any damage claims. Then they were handed their badges and the silver dollars, the latter to make the release form a binding document.

The merchants of Campbell River know a good thing when they see it—and they've seen a good thing in today's explosion.

Hotel and auto courts were doing a tourist-season business.

Some officials were housed as far away as Courtenay, 28 miles to the south.

One enterprising merchant was advertising Ripple Rock souvenirs, tiny chunks of the rock—presumably retrieved by skin divers—with a short printed history of the rock. The only drawback to his plan was that he was closed Friday, the day the influx hit its peak.

A dry run of the Ripple Rock blast which was to eliminate the west coast's worst navigational hazard was carried out Friday morning. The dress rehearsal went off without a hitch.

A fisheries department vessel placed fish cages to be picked up immediately after the blast.

Fish in the cages will be checked for the effect which the great explosion of 2,750,000 pounds of dynamite will have on them.

The Times Tofino correspondent reported: "Nothing seen, felt or heard, Tofino or Ucluelet."

The seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory recorded the shock "well," a spokesman there said.

Actual authentic reports on shock intensity measured here and duration of the seismograph recording must await return of scientists from the blast site.

Three parachute flares were fired at five-minute intervals prior to the explosion.

They were sent up from the Maud Island bunkers at 9.15, 9.20 and 9.25 a.m.

Cuba 'War of Nerves' May Erupt After Easter

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's "total, implacable war" against Cuban President Fulgencio Batista began today as a war of nerves.

This Caribbean island was tense but relatively calm. The big push "to be free or to perish"—as Castro put it in his declaration of war against the dictator president—may not come until after Easter holidays end Monday morning.

Some rebel sources in Havana claim the Roman Catholic Church has been friendly to the 31-year-old rebel leader's cause, and that he would not want to antagonize the hierarchy by open attacks during religious celebrations.

There have been no signs of Castro's long-threatened call for a general strike. Rumors in Havana had said the bearded insurgent leader would issue the call from his mountain hide-out Tuesday.

Castro claimed 50,000 supporters would then pour into the streets, halt all commerce and do battle with the police and the army.

But the government, with the backing of the powerful Cuban Confederation of Labor, has vowed there will be no strike. Workers have been authorized to kill anyone who urges them to walk off the job. Those who strike will lose their jobs permanently. Employers have been threatened with jail if they close down their businesses.

Castro's declaration of war went into effect at one minute past midnight—but not a shot was heard in downtown Havana at that time and there were no reports of stepped-up rebel activity from anywhere in Cuba.

Castro had pledged: "From this instant on, the country is in a state of total war against the tyranny of Batista. The war will be waged implacably."

Havana abandoned its traditionally gay mood. Streets, night spots and hotels were almost deserted. Rebel sympathizers, who claimed they had arms hidden in buildings on almost every street in this capital, awaited orders from Castro's stronghold in the mountains of Oriente province on Cuba's eastern tip. Batista sent out police patrols to keep the peace.

The rebels' determination was matched by confidence in the Batista camp. Batista, 57-year-old former army sergeant who has dominated Cuban politics for almost half his lifetime, has 38,000 men under arms.

His military leaders say they have no doubt they could wipe out Castro's 2,000 or so mountain guerrillas—if only they would come out of the backwoods for an open fight.

A total of 5.3 miles of Primacord—fuse that burns at a speed of 21,000 feet per second—was used to fire the blast.

Sight to Remember for Lifetime

BY AB KENT
Times Reporter

I saw Ripple Rock blow its top and felt the earth tremble at a distance of 4½ miles.

I shall always remember it.

My wife, Marion, her brother John and I were at an obscure vantage point on an old logging road about a mile north of the John Hart dam.

We found it by accident as we scouted the area Friday night before RCMP road blocks were imposed.

There were five boys from Campbell River who had camped there overnight and we stopped when we saw their fires.

Apart from them we had the lookout to ourselves.

Farther along buses took load after load of the curious to a point on Frog Mountain, about four miles from Ripple Rock itself.

We left our car at the dam and walked to the 400 foot level. We had no radio to check whether or not the operation would go off.

The quintet of teenagers were soaked by overnight rain but stuck to their post until five minutes before the blast.

At that point they decided the dull, overcast, foggy Seymour Narrows was not going to clear enough for the spectacle and packed their sleeping bags. We stayed on.

The boys were walking back and behind trees up the road when the explosion burst.

We nearly missed it ourselves.

John and I stood side by side on a log, Marion on the ground peering between us. I squinted through binoculars at the misty Narrows, unable to distinguish anything.

It looked like rain any minute.

John held his movie camera as Marion stood with mouth

open in case of concussion.

Zero hour was here and I looked away for a moment.

Suddenly Marion cried "There go the rockets" and we saw their parallel, vertical line against the haze—then it happened.

The flash appeared beside the rockets' trails, its black and white pattern etched against the greyness.

John's movie camera whirled. He paused a moment to wind and then groaned.

The lens cap still covered his telephoto lens and the 10 feet of color film which we had hoped to keep for home movie posterity were blank.

... RIPPLE ROCK SAW ROCK IN 1885

Logging Pioneer Sees Big Blow

By Staff Reporter

CAMPBELL RIVER—Oldest "Very Important Person" watching the Ripple Rock blast from a guest bunker north of Campbell River, both from point of view of actual years of life and experience with the Ripple Rock country, was R. D. Merrill of Seattle.

This 89-year-old patriarch of the Pacific Northwest logging industry first saw Seymour Narrows in 1885, when his family acquired land in the area for logging purposes.

He first went through Seymour Narrows in 1898 in a rowboat with one other man, when they became stormbound and had to stay overnight on Maud Island, that forms the southeastern boundary of the narrows.

"And I shot a deer out of season, too," this fine, old gentleman reported with a twinkle in his eye.

His company operated there as Merrill, Ring and Co., and Mr. Merrill, who snapped pictures of the blast with the best of the press photographers, is still the owner of the land where the observation bunkers were built.

He was accompanied at the blast scene by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Bloedel, formerly of Vancouver and now of Seattle.

Mr. Bloedel, son of the J. H. Bloedel, noted Washington and B.C. lumberman, is the director of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

Who's Who Saw Blast

CAMPBELL RIVER—Among the big boom were Dr. Andrew Needler and Dr. John P. Tully from the fisheries biological station at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo.

MPs-elect Walter Matthews of Nanaimo and Harry McQuillan of Comox-Alberni were in the crowd, with B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Comox MLA Dan Campbell.

Maj. Gen. H. A. Young, federal deputy minister of public works, was top man of a number of public works department officials who have worked on the project for years. Also present were U.S. Army officers representing the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Assistant commissioner C. S. Harrison of the RCMP, Victoria, headed a detachment of more than 100 Mounties who supervised security and traffic arrangements.

From the University of B.C. were Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president, and Dr. Gordon Shrum, one of B.C.'s noted physicists.

Flood-Battered California Faces New Storm Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — and creeks blocked highways, flooded thousands of acres of farmland and loosed new mudslides in suburban areas.

Thus far 13 persons have died in the storms, including a Japanese truck gardener who shot himself fatally because his $4,000 crop of vegetables had been wiped out.

The new storm front brewing in the Pacific was expected to hit sudden northern California today, reach San Francisco tonight and move on to southern California by midnight. But the weather bureau said it is not expected to be as heavy as the almost incessant rains which have brought nearly all streams to flood stage or over during the last two weeks.

Heavy seas battered the coast Friday with waves up to 40 feet high as rain-swollen rivers sounded before the waters started to heave over the twin-peak rock. In that brief moment or two, our bunker shook and you sensed, more than heard, a deep, penetrating rumble.

Then the waters opened up. The whole of the narrows erupted in breath-taking, dreadful beauty.

This was the death of Ripple Rock at the hands of man. More explosive was igniting than had ever been used before in a controlled powder blast.

At its peak, the destruction of Ripple Rock might be described as being similar to a giant display of fireworks in reverse.

Instead of the brilliant flares of soaring rockets in a fan-tail, night-time fireworks, you saw black "flares" of crumbling rock and debris against a light gray "sky" of water spray and gases.

Anti-climatic was the tidal wave the blast created. The majesty of the show above the water left the whirlpools of waves unimpaired.

No Russian Aid For Hungarians If Revolt Comes

STALINVAROS, Hungary (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev warned Hungarian Communists today that if a new revolt comes they must not depend on Russian help.

Speaking to an outdoor crowd of about 20,000, in the steel-mill town built by the Communists and named for Stalin, the new Soviet premier said:

"You should not think that if the counter-revolution comes again you can depend on the Russians to come again and help. You must help yourselves."

He spoke without notes. Apparently he did not mean to imply that he unconditionally banned future armed support.

Much of his speech was devoted to the help the Soviets gave Hungarian communists in the 1956 revolt. Foreign military observers estimate that there are still 60,000 to 80,000 Soviet troops in the country.

Earlier, Khrushchev told a cheering audience that although Russia is confident of victory in any war with the West, "the Soviet Union is not intending to achieve the victory of socialism at the price of the perishing of tens of millions of people."

"We are living on the same planet as the capitalist countries," he said. "We oppose war not out of weakness but because war would do immeasurable harm to mankind."

Dream Comes True for Boy

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—A 12-year-old Butte boy, who said he dreamed Thursday night of being buried beneath earth and boards, was suffocated Friday when the walls of a play tunnel collapsed.

Gordon Carl Brown and a playmate, Johnny Bowsher, 11, were digging a tunnel in ground made soft by a wet snow that fell throughout the day. Johnny was reported in fair condition today.

Patrick Kin, CPR Pioneer Dies Aged 95

VANCOUVER—Minnie Elizabeth Patrick, aunt of hockey immortals Frank and Lester Patrick, and first CPR agent at Laggan, now Lake Louise, Alta., in 1885, died here Wednesday.

The funeral was to be held today.

A native of Illinois, Mrs. Patrick learned the art of telegraphy from a relative, Charles Cumpston with the CPR in Moose Jaw, when the line was threading its way west. Her husband, the late Louis Patrick, drove the first CPR passenger train from Canmore, Alta., to Donald, B.C., in 1886, and continued for 32 years establishing a record on that difficult mountain run. He was 89 at his death in 1942.

Two McVie prints also have been selected by the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D.C., for a 50-print international marine exhibition in May.

Both prints feature HMCS Oriole under full sail and are entitled "Slugging Into It" and "Dirty Weather Ahead."

Mr. McVie is zone director for Western Canada of the Photographic Society of America.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

• Thin Legs • Club Foot • Rain Water • Warts

Q. Will exercise improve thin legs?
A. Yes. According to one doctor, the size of the legs can be increased by weight-resistance exercises. "Free" exercises, he says, without weight resistance is not nearly so effective. This may be true but ballet dancers acquire well developed legs by "free" exercises. They spend hours on end doing these. With the back erect and the head up, the knees and hips are fully flexed until the dancer is in a full kneeling position. Flies are done slowly, first with the feet together and then with the feet about 12 inches apart.

Q. Can club foot be treated without surgery?
A. Yes. A Navy doctor says that most club foot in infants can be successfully treated by manipulation and use of casts. Certain severe cases require surgery.

Q. Is it safe to use rain water collected from the roof?
A. It depends on the roof. If the house is located near a large orchard or garden where chemical bug sprays are used, the harmful chemical may settle on the roof and be washed down with the rain water. The pebble material now used on asbestos shingles may contain enough lead to make rain water unfit to drink. It would be best to consult your local health department regarding the safety of rain-barrel water.

Q. Are warts catching?
A. Some kinds may be. Warts are caused by a virus of which there may be two types. In most cases the wart-causing virus isn't too easily passed along from one person to another. It may stay on the skin a long time and cause trouble only when the skin is broken or scratched.

Liberal Defeats Tory In Service Vote Count

OTTAWA (CP)—The armed services vote counted Monday's election results in only one of the Commons' 265 seats, giving Liberal James M. Forgie a heavy endorsement in Ontario's Renfrew North to upset the slim majority his Progressive Conservative opponent received from the March 31 civilian count.

The service vote, results of which were issued today by Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay, was heaviest for the Liberals but they did not enjoy such a commanding percentage of it as they did in last June's general election.

However, the Liberals' strength in the service poll served to reduce some Conservative and CCF majorities in already-close contests, creating the possibility of requests for judicial recounts.

New Commons standing based on the service-plus-civilian vote: Progressive Conservatives 208; Liberals 49; CCF 8.

After Monday's civilian voting, Conservative Stanley J. Hunt had a margin of only 65 votes over Mr. Forgie in the two-way Renfrew North fight.

But the service voters gave the Liberals 431 votes to the Conservatives' 163, allowing Mr. Forgie, MP for the constituency since 1953, to retain his seat by an overall majority of 263. The final service-plus-civilian count: Forgie 10,452; Hunt 10,222.

85,833 SERVICE VOTES

There were 130,555 eligible service voters. A total of 85,833 ballots, or 65.7 per cent of the eligible total, were counted. There were 1,517 rejected ballots. In last year's election, there were 73,245 votes out of an eligible total of 131,578.

The Liberals received 57.2 per cent of the 1958 votes, Conservatives 36.4, the CCF four, Social Credit two and others less than one per cent. In the 1957 election, the Liberals had 64.6 per cent compared with the Conservatives' 24.3.

The 130,555 eligibles included 116,767 members of the active forces in Canada and abroad, 7,225 wives living abroad with their servicemen husbands and 6,563 veterans in hospitals across Canada.

OFFICIAL COUNTS

Now that the service results are known, official counts of the vote totals are made in all constituencies. In most ridings, this begins Monday. By April 15, all but seven of the official counts will have been held. The

Underworld Friend of Lana Killed by Star's Daughter

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Lana Turner's pretty 14-year-old daughter stabbed an underworld friend of her mother to death with a carving knife at Lana's home Friday night. The girl said she believed he was going to disfigure her mother.

The daughter, Cheryl Crane, 14, told police she stabbed Johnny Stompanato in the stomach with an eight-inch knife after hearing a loud argument in the actress' bedroom.

Stompanato, one-time bodyguard of Mickey Cohen and a former associate of the assassinated Bugsy Siegel, fell with a sigh to the floor in the doorway of Lana's bedroom and died.

"I wish I were like my mother," Cheryl said as she was booked on suspicion of murder, "at least she is able to cry. I can't."

The girl spent the night at Beverly Hills jail, and Miss Turner came there today to have breakfast with her. She posed for pictures but would say nothing to reporters. Her face appeared drawn.

Police said Cheryl would stay in Beverly Hills jail "for the rest of the investigation."

The maximum penalty Cheryl could receive under California law is life imprisonment. District Attorney William B. McKesson, said today.

"She is 14 and could not be executed under California law," McKesson told the United Press. "She could be tried in criminal court but no one under 18 may be executed under state law."

Cheryl said the 41-year-old Stompanato had threatened to mutilate Lana at the height of the argument. The girl said she ran into the kitchen, picked up the knife and thrust it into Stompanato's stomach "with all my might" as he stormed from Lana's bedroom.

Famed Hollywood lawyer Jerry Geisler hurried to the Beverly Hills police station for the booking of Cheryl.

"It was justifiable homicide," Geisler told reporters as he left the station later.

Lana, 38, wearing Capri slacks, a black blouse and slippers, was reluctant to leave the police station.

"I wanted to spend the night in the cell with my baby but they wouldn't let me," Lana said.

'The Stone Rolled Away'

(A Contributed Editorial)

THREE WOMEN HAD ANXIOUSLY awaited the first indications of dawn. They had very little sleep during the night. Their disturbed minds had speculated about life after death and apparently had arrived at negative conclusions. As they were going to the tomb they were speculating on who would roll away the stone. At last the darkness began to lift, and the stars faded. Soon the sun would throw its warming rays across the hillside. "Very early in the morning," says Mark, they came to the sepulchre.

You could have seen their dark figures silhouetted against the grey of the dawn as they made their way out towards Olivet. Doubt had not left their minds. They were talking about the difficulty of getting the stone rolled away; so they could enter the tomb. When they drew near they saw to their amazement that the stone was rolled away and the tomb stood open.

The women were startled. Here was a mystery almost weird. To them it was like entering their home to find everything misplaced. Some mysterious unseen visitor had been there. They were thinking of life in past relationships, of home, pleasant days together and here they found life had future possibilities to it.

Here there is life in two dimensions: the mortal and the immortal. They had laid Jesus in a tomb and laid a great stone across the opening. By that deed they had written "finis" on the tomb. And God startled them that first Easter morning with the assurance that life was not done; that these earthly qualities had eternal values in them: that life was not folded away like a garment but had survival value.

When the angel of God descended and rolled the stone away it wrote "ad infinitum" on the tomb. Life was not done. Life on its grandest scale had only commenced.

We, today, can buttress that great dynamic with lesser arguments. This universe has always turned out more wonderful than our fairest dreams. When Henry Russell, Professor of Astronomy at Princeton University, was interviewed by a reporter of the New York Times, he was asked, "Do you believe in immortality?" Do you believe that the spirit lives on after the body dies?" "Certainly, I do," was the immediate answer.

The reporter replied that it was rather strange for a scientist to say that. Then Professor Russell picked up a candle that was burning on the table and blew it out. "Now," he said, "it looks, since I have blown it out that the flame has gone. But this very minute, that light is thousands of miles from here, and if we had instruments sufficiently delicate, we could detect that light in the universe and distinguish it from the light of the stars."

We believe that personality has the power to achieve distinction. Every soul is precious in the sight of God. Every man is of infinite value. Dr. Fosdick's words are true, "If there is no immortality then God is the greatest of all wasters."

Look at what happened to men who lived under the power of the resurrection belief. Tax collectors became honest, cowards became bold, and fishermen became evangelists and statesmen.

We often say to persons bereaved, "Try to think of something else." But they cannot think of something else. The personality of the one who has passed out comes back intruding on memory.

Lastly, we buttress our hope of survival with the sense of the Righteousness of God. Just as these days are telling us that we cannot live dishonest lives in a world whose moral law is honesty, or we cannot live in the spirit of ill-will in a world whose spirit is one of brotherhood, neither can we continue in sin when the fundamental principles are purity, so neither can we have the spirit of righteousness in the minds of people today, budding forth into blossom, if the divine righteousness sweeps us, like oyster shells to be swept into the garbage after the banquet.

D. L. Moody said to an audience once, "Some day you will read in the paper that D. L. Moody is dead. Don't believe a word of it. At that moment I shall be more alive than I am now." So that stone rolled away, that empty tomb tells us that life has another sphere to it than what is circumscribed on this wandering island in the sky. "Because He lives, we shall live also."

As Our Readers See It

Lost Victoriously

You must be gratified, since the election showed a trend to the two-party system: in the East, Liberal-Tory; in the West, CCF-Tory. It is notable that the CCF was the only opposition party to maintain its vote support, despite losses of MPs.

We note that locally CCF candidates held their votes from last year, and in B.C. the CCF per cent of the vote went up (the only opposition party to make actual gains).

It seems that private enterprisers are leaving Social and Liberal parties, forming a coalition under Tory label, with the CCF as the only and real opposition.

This explains the Tory landslide, and is indeed welcomed by us in the CCF.

President, Oak Bay CCF Assn.

The Truth Presented

May I join with those who express admiration and appreciation of your series on "The Day Christ Died" by Jim Bishop. It is wonderfully well-written and adapted to the holy season we are now in, which commemorates the facts narrated—certainly the most important in the history of the world. The truth is here presented in a style that makes it more absorbing than a novel. Many readers will really appreciate the meaning of Good Friday.

Congratulations on the scummen which chose "The Day Christ Died" as a suitable feature for the Lenten season.

LOOSE ENDS

Acclaim in the Midst of Rejection, Victory in Defeat

ELSEWHERE the electors of Canada may have no regrets about last Monday's election but in the farming constituency of Rosetown-Biggar and the urban constituency of Winnipeg North Centre there are, perhaps, second thoughts. For there the electors rejected perhaps the two ablest Canadian parliamentarians of our time. Messrs. Coldwell and Knowles rightly enjoy that reputation not only among their CCF supporters but on all sides of Parliament and throughout the nation which disagreed with their policies (or thought it did) but respected them as men.

Presumably the electors of Rosetown-Biggar and Winnipeg North Centre were voting for national policies and not for men, as they had a perfect right and, indeed, an obligation to do.

BUT the tragedy of Messrs. Coldwell and Knowles, as Mr. Blair Fraser remarked on election night, is far more than personal. It is national. In a new Parliament, filled mostly with inexperienced newcomers, we badly needed these two men not only for their experience and ability but for their character—above all, for their devotion to the institution of Parliament itself.

Yet I imagine they must find some comfort in the extraordinary tributes now being paid to them in all parts of the nation and its press, especially in the press hostile to their political views. So far as I remember no such acclaim has ever been given to defeated private members of Parliament before.

THE nation has recognized in these men an honesty of purpose, a devotion to their own ideals and a social conscience very rare in politics. They had nothing to gain in public life; everything to lose and, apparently, they have lost it.

Mr. Coldwell probably would have been Prime Minister years ago if he had joined the Liberal Party (as he once intended) and Mr. Knowles refused, last summer, Mr. Diefenbaker's generous offer of the permanent Speakership, honor, comfort and security. They preferred to follow the lonely road on the fringe of politics and have ended in the wilderness. But is this defeat? No, it is victory. It is victory not only in a personal sense—the highest victory of any man who does his duty as he sees it—but in a much wider political sense. Amid apparent failure these men have accomplished far more than the public yet realizes or their opponents are likely to admit.

TO be sure, their reach exceeded their grasp, which is the fate of all good men. Their Regina Manifesto is now only a faded and almost forgotten document in the archives of history. Their youthful belief that government ownership of industry would largely solve all our economic problems has been discredited by test in Britain and elsewhere and is no longer relevant to our current society. And a few days ago the nation elected a Conservative Government by unprecedented majority.

It is quite superficial and misleading to say, however, that society has repudiated the general philosophy of Messrs. Coldwell and Knowles. If we look beyond the surface and the day-to-day wrangles of detail, we shall see that the men's general philosophy is becoming dominant in the old-line parties which are both unrecognizable today by the old definitions of Conservatism and Liberalism.

HERE I am referring not merely to the many specific policies first advocated by the CCF, quietly purloined by the Liberal Government and now sponsored by the Conservative Government. I am referring to the general drift of our society toward control by government in many versions (usually denied by the old-line parties).

Take the actual policies of the nation under both parties—the expanding welfare state, the drastic redistribution of wealth through taxes, the recent decision to subsidize the farm industry and, above all, the reliance of the whole economy, including the private enterprisers, on the government-controlled mechanism of money—and you will see the general philosophy of Messrs. Coldwell and Knowles confirmed.

NOW, I am not saying that their judgment was right. In many respects I happen to think it was wrong but that is not the point. The fact remains, for better or worse, that no private members have ever had so profound an effect on our affairs as the two so-called socialists. They marched on the fringe of things but the general line of march has been and is in their direction whether we like it or not.

They have been repudiated by two local constituencies. They have not been repudiated by history. In due time history will mark their work when it has forgotten many of the figures now basking in the headlines.

Whether the historical judgment will be favorable or otherwise we cannot yet tell. That will depend upon the kind of society we erect and mainly upon our ability to manage sensibly the gigantic apparatus of state control that we are now busily constructing while often denying our own work.

WHATEVER that society may be, we shall always need, so long as we have a democratic Parliament, the radicals, the heretics, the men of ideas who are the yeast of freedom. Messrs. Coldwell and Knowles were such men, and as one who has often attacked their views I would like to add my humble salute to them in their day of defeat and victory.

Results From a Tough Stand

THE BANK OF ENGLAND'S official interest rate has been reduced by 1 per cent, from 7 to 6, and the change is seen as a reflection of new confidence, not as an indication of altered government policy.

The higher interest rate went into effect when Britain took its determined stand against inflation. Measures enforced at that time have been effective. As one London analyst points out, the pound is strong, the balance of payments is favorable and speculation against sterling has ceased. The exceptionally high interest rate is no longer justified.

This does not mean, however, that thinking has changed to the point where a recession is considered the main economic threat in Britain. Inflation is still the main enemy and 6 per cent is still a high interest rate.

But the fact that the charge for money has been lowered is an indication of restored confidence. The hard-pressed Macmillan government had the courage to make an unpopular stand against inflation. Results have justified the position taken by the Government. On those results Britain has regained that spirit of assurance which permits the bank rate to be reduced.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Wild Flowers in a Lovely Land; Easter Music in a War

IN all the long centuries in which man has slowly stumbled forward in what he fondly believes is progress toward some indefinable and uncertain goal there is no milestone so significant as that of Easter—the time of resurrection.

It doesn't matter in the least whether he is a Christian or a savage from the barren lands of the sub-Arctic of Canada. He may be entirely ignorant of the Crucifixion and the resurrection—the timeless story of Christ may have no real significance to him. But the very season of the year is symbolic of resurrection, of a new surge of life in the earth, of the time in which "the voice of the turtle is heard in the land."

The dun grasses of winter have put on a new, fresh mantle of vivid green; a myriad wild flowers have spread their glory on the meadows and the hillsides; birds sing their very hearts out in a pean of praise; lambs skitter on their wobbly legs in the fields and pigeons strut about, stiff-legged for all the world like guardsmen on parade.

When we were children I think that the beauty and the tragedy of the story of Christ's Crucifixion and resurrection exercised very little influence, on our lives but it had an impact upon our subconsciousness because in our Sunday school teaching the wondrous story had been told to us by women who had dedicated their lives in order that we should not all grow up in a sort of religious vacuum—which would have been the inevitable result of following our own random provocations.

We were, however, stirred to an emotional ferment of indescribable proportions by the fecundity of nature all around us. The environs of Victoria fifty years ago were perhaps the most beautiful in all the continent of America. The lovely, wild-smelling wild currant had even passed its full bloom; sticky young alder leaves were breaking out; at dusk the haunting odor of mock orange filled the hours of twilight. In the shady fir forests the shy lady slipper lifted its glorious purple head and filled the air with its rich and heady scent.

In clefts of rock between the oaks the tiny Stars of Bethlehem held up their heads and sharp-nosed peacocks stood on perky stems.

But the great glory and symbol of the Eastertide at Victoria was the wild lily (the dog-toothed violet—of ridiculous name) which clothed whole hillsides in such simple beauty that it brought a lump to the throat to see the hosts of lilies waving on their thin stems as the April breezes swept them in a dance of happiness that we shared.

The wonder of living in Victoria is that one may still capture some shred of this glory; some particle of the Divine spirit that each year spreads in such prodigality the "lilies of the field."

But the thought of Eastertide takes my mind not so far back as to the days of boyhood; of carefree days that followed one another in endless succession. It takes me to the quiet Lys Valley in Flanders in the dangerous days of the late spring of 1918 when the resurgent army of the Germans had swept through the British Fifth Army on the Somme and almost punched a path to the sea.

It was in April but I am not sure now whether it was at Easter or at a later date.

We had been rushed to plug up a gap by the dereliction of the Portuguese who had fled at the first sign of the German advance.

It was my job to scout the flat countryside of the meandering Lys River and I remember how peaceful it all seemed. No shells fell near me and I had little idea that I might strike the first enemy outpost.

For endless yards and yards I crawled forward, on the alert for any sign or sound of a hostile force. At last I reached the little village of Robecq—a tiny hamlet of half a dozen houses—all empty.

Suddenly I heard—or thought I did—the swelling chords of an organ playing familiar hymns. I crept into the village street, hugging the house walls until I came to the little church from whose open doors the music poured forth.

Slowly I crawled to the door and peered within. And in the empty church was a soldier—a Canadian—lost to the war, ignorant of danger, as he produced the lovely music of Easter. I cannot remember his name, but it has no significance now, because for a short few moments he lifted himself and me on the wings of sacred song, out of the horror of war and into a world of the spirit that spoke of peace on earth and goodwill to men.

LADY SINGS THE BLUES

A Victim of 'This Senseless and Inhuman Prejudice'

IN my experience autobiographies seldom make satisfactory reading. Writers, being human, put the most favorable construction on their acts, and though the facts themselves may be true they are selected with care to support a calculated impression.

Some, it is true, apparently hold nothing back, but even these are slightly suspect. Rousseau, for instance, clearly derived so much perversed pleasure from his "Confessions" that one accepts his tales with reserve. And as for Frank Harris

Even the engaging Casanova is prone (and I use the word advisedly) to exaggerate when it comes to cutting notches on the chaise-louge, though his account of his prison-break from the "Leads" in Venice is a well-authenticated classic of escape literature.

The trouble is that your true hero is seldom articulate, and your articulate writer is seldom truthful. How often has one rushed to read a book by some outstanding man of action, only to find that he has told us everything except what we wanted to know?

Sir Henry Birkin, motor-racing idol of my generation of English youth, put the matter squarely in his great autobiography, "Full Throttle": "It would be idle to apologize for my literary style, because no one will expect the hand, used for years to the steering wheel, to have a similar skill with the pen. I am the last person to expect Edith Sitwell, in however fast a car, to win the Double Twelve at Brooklands, or Bernard Shaw the Le Mans Endurance Prize; and I have the right to claim the same indulgence for myself."

Publishers, to avoid these difficulties, employ "ghosts" to write the life stories of the tongue-tied Titans of sport and stage, often with lamentable results. Compare for instance Louis Armstrong's "Swing that Music," published 20 years ago, with "Satchmo," which appeared more recently.

That "ghost" for the first book lacked the necessary insight into Negro problems, character and idiom. "Satchmo," on the other hand, rings as true as Louis' "West End Blues," and is required reading for anyone majoring in the field of jazz.

The other day Arthur Baker lent me another jazz autobiography, equally authentic, though "ghosted." A certain William Duffy has taken the words of Eleonora Fagan and put them into shape. You won't recognize her under that label, but for any jazz lover her other name, Billie Holiday, "fills the memory like a proverb," as Baudelaire said of Hogarth.

The title? "Lady Sings the Blues." It should hold you right from the opening words: "Mom and Pop were just a couple of kids when they got married. He was eighteen, she was sixteen, and I was three."

You will be moved to pity, laughter, indignation and incredulity by turns as you read this paper-backed document.

You will find it incredible that any civilized country can treat its subjects in the way that the Negro musicians have been treated. These artists, creators of America's only original contribution in the cultural field, have been considered good enough to be exploited for their talents, and to be sent abroad to boost America's sagging popularity in Europe, but not good enough to mix with the "white folks" at home.

Nor is this senseless and inhuman prejudice confined to the Faulkner country. 52nd Street, New York, is a long way from Yoknapatawpha County, but you wouldn't think so to judge from Billie's description of her stint at the "Famous Door" in the late 30's and early 40's.

This superb singer, at her best the Flagstad of Jazz, freely praises the white musicians—Goodman, Barnet, Teagarden are three—who treated their colored counterparts as equals; she is short and scathing about anyone who has "high-hatted" her; she is clinically frank about her own shortcomings.

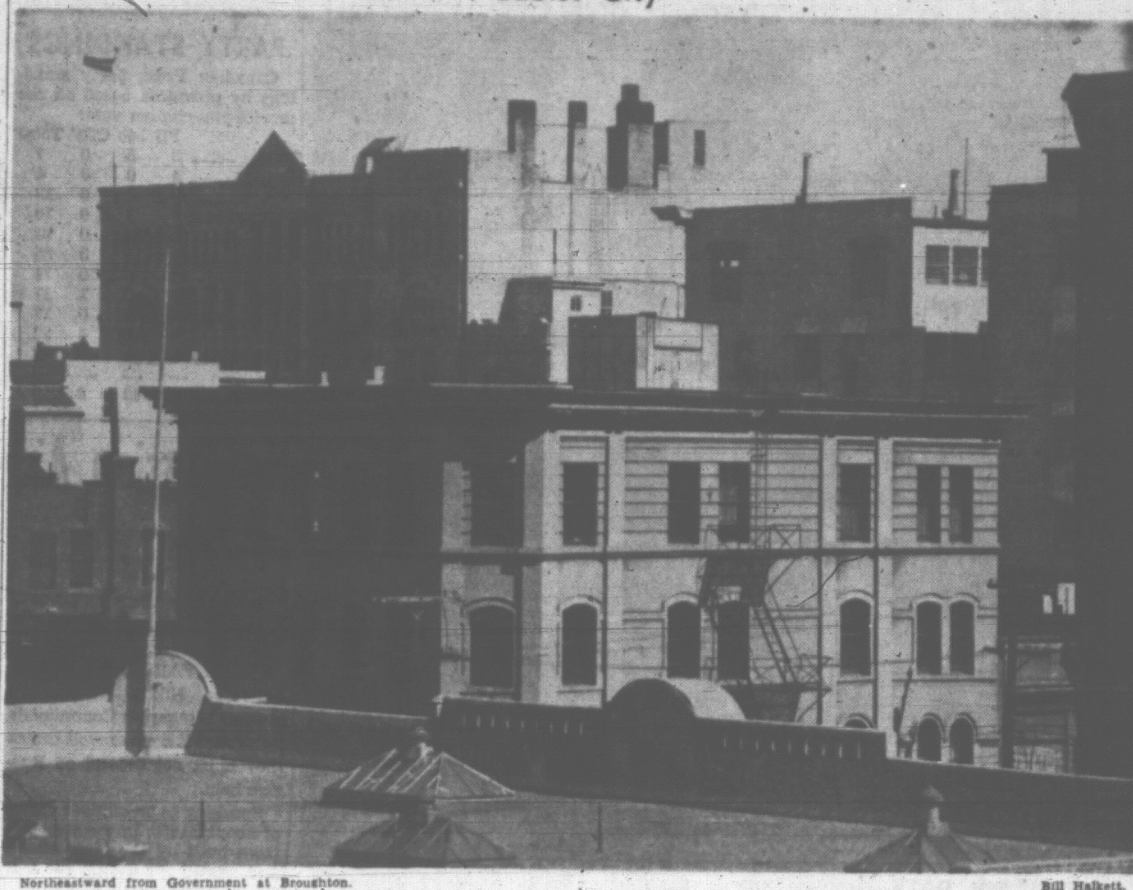

After discovering the kind of life she has led, since she was born, unwanted, in Baltimore 43 years ago, one is not surprised to learn that she has been a narcotics addict, on and off, for 20 years. The only wonder is that any alum-born American Negro grows up to live a decent life in a country where he is treated as a third-class citizen.

Drug addiction probably accounts for the perceptible decline in the quality of "Lady's" once outstanding talent, and her present eclipse by Ella Fitzgerald.

Billie's book, published in 1956, ends with her conviction in Philadelphia on a "dope" charge, and subsequent "cure."

"This time," she says, "the doctors have told me I should be able to stay straight for two whole years."

Last month I read a brief news item telling of Billie Holiday's conviction, in Philadelphia, for the possession and use of narcotics. Whom one wonders guiltily, is to blame?

'... That Evenin' Sun Go Down'

HARLEM AND OTHER PARTS of the world susceptible to the melancholy rhythm of "the blues" have paid their tributes to W. C. Handy, the highly respected Negro who fathered that type of melody and who died of pneumonia at 84.

It rests with the experts to weigh the importance of his contribution to music. To the North American public of two generations he had become a folk figure, a man who caught popular imagination with his interpretation of the emotions, the sentiment and the sentimentality of his times.

Around the type of music he wrote has grown a cult, a school of experts in their own right, who have written in learned terms of the vehicle he developed. To the people he gave songs carrying the notes of bewilderment, passion, sadness and a sort of frenzied search for pleasure that were sung, whistled and hummed by millions of lips.

As the cortege passed through Harlem, an accompanying band played a slow but rhythmic version of his "St. Louis Blues." What was mortal of H. C. Handy has gone. The "blues" remain.

Dollars to Fight Cancer

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE CONquer Cancer Campaign here this year will be used for two main purposes. Funds will be devoted first to the extension of the Victoria Cancer Clinic facilities, to permit use of the cobalt "bomb." Additional money collected will be used to finance research on causes and treatment of cancer.

The dual purpose of the drive now in progress presents a direct appeal to people of this community. They need little instruction on the urgency of pressing home the attack against the killing disease.

By constructing more adequate accommodation and by supporting the necessary research that must be carried on donors are helping themselves and those close to them.

Cancer is no respecter of persons. Contributions are the individual's best hope of providing protection against the scourge — protection which depends on scientific advance that costs large sums of money.

Great Year for Cougars, Too

MR. LOUIS EVEN, LEADER OF a Quebec off-shoot of the federal Social Credit Party, goes several steps further than Premier Bennett in an assessment of the federal election's impact on Social Credit.

Mr. Bennett says only that "it might even make us stronger" and he merely "guesses" that victory is the party's next step.

Mr. Even proclaims the result of March 31 "a victory for true Social Credit." The movement was never meant to form its own political party and now it can be placed on a pedestal, where, he says, it belongs, presumably with a suitable inscription.

And it was a great year for the Cougars, too, wasn't it?

The Electronic Registrar

"SAY!" squawked the Court House Seagull, as he volplaned down from the southerly eavestrough and settled himself in the middle of Bastion Street. "Have you seen it?"

"Seen what?"

"The new stamp machine up there in the office! I never thought they'd do it!"

The noble bird was referring to one of the many oddities which the legislature produced at its last session; an act to permit the machine printing of law stamps on court documents. On Thursday the machine made its debut, scattering rusty, brown smudges over many a fair white affidavit.

"Oh, yes, I've seen it. Appears to be efficient; might even be economical. You never know till you try."

"Economical scheme, economical! What are things coming to? It's all part of a trend!" he added, with an importantly sinister lowering of his raucous voice. "It's the thinner end of the wedge!"

"What are you talking about?"

"What was the matter with the old law stamps? Nice colors, nice design, that naked lady with the blindfold and the balance. Justice, that was. That was. Well, they were O.K., weren't they?"

"Certainly."

"Of course they were. First, you remember the start of this year, when they brought out those new stamps; centenary, or something. No more naked ladies, just an indifferent landscape. Everyone thought it was the Government's concern over legal morals, but I knew better. Yessir. It was the thin end. They were setting things up for that machine; softening up the public, they were."

"Governments do that from time to time."

"I was the only one who saw through them. It's the start of the big change. Ladies to landscapes to smudges; thus far we've gone. What's next?"

"Perhaps..."

"What's next? I'll tell you what's next! Automation is moving into the Court House! This mechanical cashier is the first step. Within a year they'll be no clerks, just slot machines. There'll be an electronic registrar before you know it; and the next step is but a short one to the fully-transistorized judge. Give 'em ten years, and Court of Appeal will be fully automatic. I hope I'm not here to see it!"

"Now, don't get sentimental."

"Hah! What can you expect from a gang that covers the Parliament Buildings with long green garters and white petunias? First the brass spittoons go, and china ones appear. Then the china ones go. Now there's talk that the Court House will go, and a mechanical cashier is here already. The days of flesh and blood are numbered, I tell you. Numbered!"

"Come now."

"Awrrrk! The people won't like it! Oh, no. They'll turn up in court one morning, ready to go on with their case. 'My Lord!' they'll say. 'All they'll get from the bench is a whirr and a clank, instead of the usual grunt. They won't like it, I tell you. They'll be nervous about short circuits. And a registrar which goes tapcketa pocketa pocketa and lets out blue sparks while administering an oath will be very putting off. Very putting off indeed! There'll be trouble, mark my words!"

Just then the garbage scow appeared off the end of the street, and cut short his dire forebodings.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Meet 'King' Beer

LONDON—Just as with clothes, fashions in the drinking world change, too.

Take this matter of ginger ale. For as long as anyone can remember the English have been wedded to a type of ginger ale that to a Canadian, accustomed to his type, is so hot that it tastes like liquified pepper.

But this very gingery ginger ale is what the English have been used to and presumably anybody trying to change their taste in this regard would have a very hard time of it.

A famous firm here has for many a year had a stranglehold on the British soft drinks market, from ginger ale down to soda water, and recently when a firm equally famous in Canada invaded this country with Canadian-style ginger ale the know-it-alls in the business world predicted they would come a cropper.

Not at all. The English have so taken to the Canadian product that this English firm has been forced to put on the market a competing version of Canadian dry ginger ale. But as a face-saver, they're calling it "sweet ginger ale!"

In the world of drinks not so soft, the brewers' society is complaining that it is not so much television that is driving people out of the pubs at what they term the excessive beer tax. It seems that annually the public pays $550,000,000 more in beer taxation than the $160,000,000 it spends on television.

A half-pint glass of beer is now just a halfpenny short of a shilling—three times what it was prewar. And drinking habits are changing here, too. In the old days in a pub a person who drinks "shorts" (i.e. gin, whisky, etc.) used to apologize to a beer-drinker for sticking him for the higher price when asked to have a drink.

Now, no apology is necessary. A pint of beer costs more than a tot of gin and almost the same price as a whisky. Nowadays that often heard remark in a pub when someone is invited to have a drink—"Do you mind if I have a gin?"—is out of date and what you hear now is, "Do you mind if I have a pint of beer?"

Here's an intriguing snatch of conversation I overheard: "I was walking through the fog and I came across this woman being helped along the street by a blind man..."

They're worried at cricket headquarters here about the appalling things that have been going on out in the West Indies and in South Africa. In the West Indies, Pakistani batsman Hanif stays at the wicket for three and a half days for the longest ever Test Match innings.

Then South African McGlew bats a day and a half for the slowest ever century. More changes in the rules expected, to prevent the game from dying of stagnation.

PROTEST MOUNTS

Atom Test Ban Issue Widens East-West Rift

WASHINGTON (AP)—East and West traded verbal brickbats Friday on the issue of halting nuclear weapons tests. Government officials taunted and glibed at each other.

Meantime, within the Western world, groups opposed to nuclear test blast dramatized their stand with legal moves and demonstrations.

A number of scientists, churchmen and others filed suit against Washington officials to halt U.S. tests, and anti-bomb demonstrators marched in New York and London.

At the government level, Soviet Premier Khrushchev denied Russia's suspension of nuclear tests is a propaganda gimmick, as President Eisenhower described it, and said:

"If Eisenhower really thinks we have stopped atomic and hydrogen bomb tests for propaganda reasons, then why don't he and other Western statesmen try the same propaganda and halt the tests themselves."

Khrushchev told a crowd in Budapest that stopping the tests is not only a matter of life and death but would be a first step toward disarmament and would promote solution of other urgent world problems.

He called on Prime Minister Macmillan as well as Eisenhower to "follow the example of the Soviet Union, prove your good intentions."

The U.S. state department, replying, recalled that Russia rejected a United Nations resolution last November calling for international agreement on a step-by-step disarmament program.

Press officer Lincoln White noted the Russians also blocked efforts to carry through a resolution setting up a 25-nation disarmament commission.

Russ Shun Goodwill Move

White said the Soviets had turned back "the greatest expression of intention of goodwill" which had been made in recent months.

There were these developments:

Washington—A group of scientists, churchmen and other individuals sued Defence Secretary Neil McElroy and the five members of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in an extraordinary attempt to halt U.S. tests. Similar suits are planned in Britain and Russia, the two other nuclear testing powers.

Washington—The Atomic Energy Commission declined comment on a statement by Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.-Minn.) that recent Russian tests have literally poisoned the world's atmosphere with radioactivity.

Berkeley, Calif.—The California state health department last week reported that a sharp rise in the radioactive content of bay area rainfall was noted over the March 22 weekend, presumably as a result of Russian test explosions in Siberia. Radiological checks gave a reading 200 times higher than the standard established as safe for drinking water, but a spokesman said there was no community danger.

New York—An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said weather patterns are giving the northern United States more radioactive fallout than the rest of the nation. Merrill Eisenbud, regional AEC manager, told a press conference that nowhere was fallout approaching dangerous levels despite the pattern.

London—Four thousand British demonstrators set out on 50-mile, four-day protest march to Aldermaston, Britain's nuclear weapons research centre.

New York—An estimated 500 peace marchers, some of whom had arrived by foot from Philadelphia and New Haven, Conn., demonstrated in front of the United Nations. They carried a petition asking the UN to urge a halt to nuclear tests.

Tokyo—A government source said Japan has proposed a complete prohibition of nuclear tests to the United States, Britain and Russia.

Way of Cross Trod by Line Of Pilgrims

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Long lines of pilgrims retraced the route of Jesus Christ along the Way of the Cross in Good Friday services in the Holy Land.

French nuns with starched white headresses and brown robes. Italian monks joined thousands of foreign visitors in the long march from the first station at Rawdat Maref to the tomb in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre.

Many of the faithful groaned under the weight of heavy wooden crosses as they edged over the slippery cobbles of the Via Dolorosa to Calvary Hill.

The silent procession along the Way of the Cross was joined by Jordanian government officials and diplomatic missions.

The march was divided into sections according to language. Sermons were preached in the different languages along the 14 stations of the route.

Sombre Good Friday rites drew hundreds of thousands of pilgrims to Rome where the Eternal City's 300 churches muted their bells, stripped their altars and draped their crucifixes in purple.

Prince Rainier of Monaco clocked the Monte Carlo casino in respect for Good Friday. Only four times in the past has it been shut on this day.

Canada Sees Test Ban Halting Radiation Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—The external affairs department said Friday that Canada "welcomes" Russia's announced ban on nuclear tests "to the extent that it may result in a halt in the rise of radiation" over Canada.

However, a statement issued by the department, said the rest of the world could not be sure "in the absence of satisfactory arrangements for international inspection" that the Russians were not holding tests.

"The Canadian government has been concerned by the intensity of the nuclear weapons testing program of the Soviet Union during recent weeks," the statement said.

The Soviet testing program had "led to an observable sharp rise in the background radiation in the latitudes in which Canada is situated."

REGARDED WITH FAVOR

"The government is disposed to regard with favor any Soviet action which would modify their policy of intensifying the rate of testing."

"To the extent that it may result in a halt in the rise in radiation which has been caused by the speed-up in Soviet weapons development, the Canadian government welcomes the report that the Soviet Union intends to cease carrying out tests of nuclear weapons."

The statement reiterated that

Canada's stand on nuclear tests is that "while the cessation of suspension of nuclear tests would be of considerable significance it would not alone halt, much less reverse, the nuclear armaments race and that some fundamental action must be agreed upon."

But it was "the sincere hope of the Canadian government, that the present Soviet action is intended to assist in the promotion of agreed arrangements and will not be used as a device for avoiding a system in which all can have confidence."

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Exhibit of British Art
Discerning, Tasteful

In 1957 the world of art was shocked by the death of John Minton who was regarded by many people as being one of Britain's most promising painters. Although a rebel and, for those who knew him, often unpredictable in his actions, he was destined for a great career.

He was probably the only "rebel" whose cause was accepted by the Royal Academy when Burlington House first opened its doors to the post-war artists of non-traditionalists.

Then, by his own hand, he died at the early age of 40.

Symposium was freely used by John Minton to express his own personal sense of tragedy. Even in his sunny, colorful Spanish paintings, there lurks a sadness as compelling as it is evident.

Perhaps the most powerful, most moving canvas he ever painted was the large study of shipwrecked "Survivors" purchased by the National Gallery of Canada, and to be seen at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria until April 13. This is a freely adapted version of Gercault's famous painting, "The Raft of the Medusa," first exhibited at the Salon in 1819 and now hanging in the Louvre.

The exhibition of British paintings, recent National Gallery accessions, comprises 15 works and roughly spans the epoch from 1930 onwards.

Contrasts

The emphasis is on progressive, contemporary trends whether non-objective or New English Art Club. Naturally one must not expect a comprehensive survey of British art with so few paintings; but as a generalized statement this exhibition covers the principal developments. It is an exhibition of contrasts.

How warm and exciting is the small gouache, painted in 1930 by Edward Burra. How arid, the slide-rule world of Ben Nicholson.

I can imagine many good citizens being shocked by William Scott's large canvas "Still-life, Blue," and it is this same artist who is representing Britain in the 1958 Venice Biennale.

I do not consider this by any means one of his better paintings, for Scott, at his best, is a fine painter. In this particular picture the blue appears to have sunk into the canvas, thus destroying all quality of paint and texture.

A painting which has lost none of its freshness since first I saw it in the Whitechapel Art Gallery exhibition of the London Group, is William Gear's impressive "Sculpture Project." Gear, who this month becomes curator of the Towner Art Gallery, Eastbourne, was awarded first prize in the 1951 Festival of Britain competition organized by the Arts Council.

Moderates, Too

Graham Sutherland is represented in this selection by two canvases, of which the "Large Vine Pergola," painted in 1948, is the more pleasing and there is also to be seen a 1952 canvas by John Piper, "Rowstone Carving with Hanging Lamp." I liked the "Yellow Landscape" by Donald Hamilton Fraser, seeing in its left-hand section a reminder of Turner's cliffs of Dover.

And here we come to the more moderate and acceptable, paintings by William Brooker and Graham Bell. Brooker's "The Green Settee" and Bell's poetically atmospheric "Whitfield Street Baths," are truly delightful.

"Chiswick Mill," also by William Brooker, is typical in style and approach of the landscape paintings being done in England at the present time.

Special attention should be given to Robert Medley's "Coal Tip, Gravesend." Medley, a professor at the Slade School of Art, is an artist who has come well to the fore in recent years. Barbara Hepworth and Terry Frost are well represented in this small collection. Also of interest is "From Colorado Over to New Mexico," by the late Martin Bloch. Here the painting is more suggestive of Edward Munch, rather than a British tradition—unless we recall the

Tito and His Times;
Unprejudiced View(Reviewed by Tony Dickason)
DISPUTED BARRICADE, by Fitzroy MacLean. (Jonathan Cape, London, 463 pp.)

Nothing could be more lucid than Brigadier MacLean's exposition of the situation in Yugoslavia and his brilliant and impartial study of the turbulent rise of Josip Broz—Marshal Tito.

The author has known Tito intimately ever since he parachuted in Yugoslavia during the war as Churchill's personal emissary, and has seen him and his compatriots under the most varied circumstances.

But despite close personal observations, he writes without personal attachment and with high objectivity, of a situation apt to arouse the most violent passions.

His descriptions of Tito's early struggles are vivid; his adventurous early life; ruthless climb to power; the epic struggle against the Germans and revolt against Moscow, one of the most politically significant moves in dealings with Russia in recent years.

It was not too long ago when it was a popular pastime to pass judgment on Tito and his satellite country in its relations with Moscow. The author does not attempt this.

"I prefer simply to set out the facts—and to leave my readers to pass such judgment as they desire on men confronted with dilemmas and with conflicts of loyalty which they themselves, in all probability, have not yet had to face."

Excellent material.

VANCOUVER FESTIVAL
ARTISTS IN EUROPE

Two of the longest established world-wide festivals and the about-to-be-launched Vancouver International Festival will share some of the same artists this year.

Word from Edinburgh confirms that Maureen Forrester, Canadian contralto, and the Montreal Bach Choir have been engaged for the Edinburgh Festival, while Jon Vickers, 31-year-old Canadian tenor, has been invited to sing two leading roles in this season's Wagner Operatic Festival at Bayreuth, Germany.

It is believed that this is the first time a Canadian has ever been invited to sing at the highly-traditional event. Maureen Forrester and Mr. Vickers will both appear in Vancouver, Miss Forrester to sing with Bruno Walter and the Festival Orchestra and both artists to take part in a presentation of Verdi's Requiem.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Historical Works Favored
By Canadian Reading Public

It is a rare moment if anything very spectacular happens in the Canadian book world, but in their own characteristically Canadian way, Canadian writers continue to make gains and often in the least expected quarters.

Take, for example, two Canadian books which have (contrary to expectations) become popular enough to warrant new editions. One is George Elmore Reaman's The Trail of the Black Walrus, a book about the migration of the "Pennsylvania Dutch" into Canada. This was published last summer and since then the sale has not only been steady, but increasing. Queried about it, the publishers had no theories why a book such as this would attract the Canadian reading public, but they are quite content that it does and no questions asked. Matter of fact it is a very readable book.

Second book to go into a new printing this week is Kim Beattie's Dilemma: History of the 48th Highlanders in Canada, 1929-1957. This book is close to a thousand pages long and weighs at least three pounds but people are buying it. Again the publishers have no real explanation.

The interesting point of similarity in these two book-selling episodes is that both deal with historical material. I am convinced that Canadians are particularly interested in their own past and for the life of me cannot understand why, by this time, we have not produced more and better historical novels with Canadian themes.

Meanwhile, Arthur M. Lower, the stormy historian, the angry oldish man of Queen's University, Kingston, is working on a social history of Canada which, if Arthur is running true to form, will manage to make quite a few people very angry.

Another historian (British this time) who always manages to make a good run as far as sales go, has now completed and published the final volume of the monumental History of the English-Speaking Peoples. The fourth and final volume of Sir Winston Churchill's great opus is now on the stands under the title, The Great Democracies. I haven't got around to reading much of my copy yet but enough to say that there is no falling off of power in the great work and I know that I express many people's sentiment when I say that all his

Little Known Ballet
Survives as Suite

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Music from Bella Bartok's "The Miraculous Mandarin"—a ballet rarely performed because of its lurid and fantastic story, appears on an Angel record (35550).

This ballet will probably only be known through its orchestral suite which is performed on this record by the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Fernando Previtali.

The ballet has had a troublesome history. It was banned after a dress rehearsal in Budapest in 1931. An attempt was made to stage it again in the city ten years later. This time the clergy intervened. It was cancelled.

The ballet was performed in other European capitals but never met with too much success. For this reason it has never become a part of the standard repertory, nor is it ever likely to become so. The story is too gruesome to be acceptable.

On the reverse side of the disc, the orchestra performs Stravinsky's Firebird Suite and his Fireworks.

During the 19th century, composers wrote numerous Intermezzi for their operas. The music was designed to entertain the audience and to fill in time while the scenery was being changed.

Later in the century, the intermezzo underwent a change. An increasing number of composers wrote music to indicate the mood of the drama.

Some of these orchestral pieces are heard on a new Angel Record (35483) entitled "Italian Opera Intermezzi." This record deserves full marks. It is one of the best I've heard this month.

The musical selections are played by the Philharmonia Orchestra with Milan-born Alcio Galliera conducting.

Box Office opens Friday, April 11th—Eaton's Music Centre—All seats reserved.

Damascus, a subsidiary capital to Cairo since the merger of Syria and Egypt into the United Arab Republic, is the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world, the National Geographic Magazine says. "Rock" played it for laffs, despite what "she" said.
That set-quin gown, that "Kim" Novackick outfit, Fit her like the scales on a Cowchman trout.
"Clark Gable" didn't look much like "The King."
But Doris Day ad-fibbed her way thru the thing.
"So-Sophie Loren" . . . nervous . . . but curvetting.
Intigruing like a gem, removed from its setting.
The most DIS-interest'd performance, by "Gregory Peck."
The "Best Cry" by Joanne Woodward, wringing "Oscar's" neck.

A weird-looking get-up "Rosa Lind" wore,
As if she russelled it up from the neighborhood store.
Maurice Chevalier . . . had the most charm 'n' ease,
"Everest Little Breeze Seems To Wispere Lou-eze."
The "Miyoshi Umeki" . . . that Japanese doll.

Has a charm that goes with a pink para-sol.
"Tony Martin" can sing from his die-a-phragm.
But grimaces like fed, an over-ripe clam.
Foy Lifesaving . . . Bob Hope, rescued it all.
Held it . . . Chin Up . . . till the last curtain-call.
Twas amazing how fast the time went by,
With NO commercials by some gushing guy.
The movies took a swing at the TV score.
And came up with an "Oscar" on Chanel "4."

Verbal Rocks May Bruise But Look for the Gold

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

"Adjudicators are a lot—a sorry one we've got." That is a rough paraphrase on an old saw that makes acid disposal of husbands, actually.

I don't remember the saying too well, not holding with such anyway and that one in particular; but I was reminded of it this week when some anti-adjudicator venom was being injected into my impartial ear. (The other, the partial one, might have become inflamed, seeing that it had done its bit in the adjudication field.)

My opening paraphrase is so often the theme of the non-victorious in festivals that it makes one wonder.

Can adjudicators, each and all and in every instance, be on the beam for only one group of people and wide of the mark for all others?

Audrey That's nonsense, of course. It just seems that way to the fellows that get crowned with lead instead of laurels.

All the same, though, I have a hunch the attitude of adjudicators generally leaves something to be desired.

Too often inconsistencies creep in, diplomacy leaps out, impatience crowds kindness and constructiveness goes down for the count.

And aggrieved thespians go through the roof!

UNHELPFUL It does not help the cause of dramatic development in a country such as Canada—and especially here in the West—and quirks of personality that are inevitable in such case, anything can happen.

Groups knowing the circumstances must enter at their own risk and take what comes with a shrug and a smile. C'est la guerre!

At the same time don't try to tell me you see nothing at all of value in the experience—it's just the sweat running into your eyes that's blinded you.

An interesting sidelight to the visit to Victoria of Canada's National Ballet is that the orchestra will include two ex-Victoria musicians, Stan McCartney, formerly clarinetist with the Victoria Symphony, and Bobby Creese.

I'm sorry to say I don't know anything about the latter. Maybe a reader who has some information would phone or write in about him.

This company of Canadian artists is making tremendous gains for Canadian prestige in the United States, where their full length "Swan Lake" has been acclaimed again and again.

Many Victorians will be seeing this enchanting ballet with its romantic and ineffably lovely music by Tchaikovsky for the first time in complete form.

With still glowing memories of having seen the Sadler's Wells presentation in Vancouver a few years ago, I commend it to one and all.

Phil Lee's Two for the Show

A (Don't Miss) AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile) C (To put to time)

(OSCAR CLASS) "WITNESS FOR THE PROSECUTION" (Odeon)—As the English would say, United Artists' "Witness for the Prosecution" is wizard! Not only does it depict one of the most fascinating court trials in years but it gives Charles Laughton and his wife, Elsa Lanchester, their best roles since Laughton played Capt. Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty" and Miss Lanchester appeared in "Henry VIII"—also, with Laughton. Indeed, it is these two, in spite of such stars as Tyrone Power and Marlene Dietrich, who make "Witness for the Prosecution" the picture of merit it is.

Of course, in the end it is the story itself that carries the principals, the cast and the audience into a final scene that must rank among the top two or three surprise endings in motion picture history. As a matter of fact we can think of only one offhand to compare to it, "Kind Hearts and Coronets."

It is no wonder then that the theatre will not seat patrons during the last quarter-hour of the play.

In fact, to enjoy "Witness for the Prosecution" to the full one should see it from the very beginning.

The plot in brief form in order not to give away a single clue as to the denouement: Laughton, a famous criminal lawyer, has returned to his practice in London following a severe heart attack with his private nurse, Miss Lanchester. He has been ordered by his doctors to forego any exciting trials and to deal only with comparatively routine affairs, such as everyday corporation cases and so on.

Then along comes Tyrone Power, a happy-go-lucky, straightforward man of frank countenance who says he fears that he will be charged with the murder of wealthy widow Norma Varden. In spite of his doctor's orders, Laughton becomes intrigued with the case and when Power is charged he agrees to take over his defence.

Under the canny direction of Billy Wilder, Agatha Christie's play unfolds slowly, almost majestically, in the court of British law. For Laughton it is made to order. It gives him full range of his not inconsiderable talent. At times he is sly, he is moody, he is vicious, he is brilliant, he is bulldogish, and, usually, he is Laughton. And when he isn't being Laughton he is Henry VIII or Winston Churchill. But whatever he is, he is in brilliant form and certainly deserves his nomination for a "best actor" Academy Award.

Miss Lanchester, too, is perfect as the special nurse who would pacify her charge even as she tries to outwit him, keeping him away from his beloved cigars and his brandy. Indeed, it is the duel between these two that keeps the long courtroom scenes alive, witty and exciting.

In conclusion, if you enjoy courtroom drama and suspense, well-laced with comedy, then don't miss "Witness for the Prosecution."

Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" for choir and orchestra will be one of two major works to be presented by Victoria Choral Society April 22 at Metropolitan United Church.
In addition conductor Graham Steed announces the program will include Vaughan Williams' "Festival Te Deum," a work based on a traditional theme and written for the coronation ceremonies of the late King George VI.
Well known Victoria soprano, Peggy Walton Packard will be the soprano soloist. Tenor solos will be taken by Tom Golee of the University of Washington. Mr. Golee comes to Victoria with a high recommendation from the University's Dr. Stanley Chappel.

Color, Enchantment In Gaelic Choir
As enchanting as the legend-ary leprechauns that frolic over the green hills of their native Ireland, the Little Gaelic Singers will appear for the first time in Victoria April 21 at the Royal Theatre.
Following their highly successful debut season, these radiant youngsters are now on a second solidly booked tour that is carrying them clear across the North American continent.
A hit on their first appearance on the Ed Sullivan TV show, they will fill a return engagement with Sullivan during their current visit to the United States.
All the children play musical instruments and dance as well as sing. One of the high spots of the performance is to see and hear them accompanying their joyous songs and spritely dancing with their own fiddle playing.
All their extensive repertory is Irish and ranges in mood from the haunting sadness of "Eileen Aroon" to the gaiety of "The Kerry Dance" and from sentimental "Dandlin' Song" to spirited "Kitty of Coleraine."

PRESS, radio and TV cameramen watched blast from this bunker 7,000 feet from Ripple Rock and due south of entrance to Seymour Narrows.

THESE YOUNGSTERS happily find themselves in knee-deep sea of Easter lilies in Bermuda, where dozens of fields such as this one dot the resort. Bermudians are so fond of their lilies they hold an annual lily pageant. This year the Bermuda Floral Pageant, featuring more than 50 lily-decorated floats, will be staged April 24.

Two Aldermen Stage Mutiny On Fluoridation

(From CP Dispatches) VANCOUVER—Two city aldermen have mutinied and will be asked to resign as city representatives on the Greater Vancouver water board regarding the fluoridation issue.

The demand for resignation by Ald. Frank Baker of Jack Cornett and George Miller follows their refusal to vote on the fluoridation resolution according to council instructions.

The resolution—authorizing the Greater Vancouver Water Board to seek legal power to allow fluoridation as a majority of the municipalities requested it—was defeated by an 8-6 vote Thursday at the water board meeting.

Ald. Cornett voted against the resolution. Ald. Miller left before the vote.

Ald. Baker said Friday "I feel that anyone that disobeys council orders and who flouts the wishes of the people by opposing the fluoridation issue should be removed."

Ald. Cornett and Miller earlier asked to be removed from the water board rather than vote as instructed by council, but Mayor Hume took no action on their request.

CHURCHES PROTEST

VANCOUVER—Three church groups have protested the "commercial aspects" of the centennial Easter parade to be staged in downtown Vancouver Sunday.

The parade, being organized by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will feature vintage cars and floats depicting the brotherhood theme representing various Vancouver ethnic groups.

Also taking part will be cowboys and chuckwagons, Indians and a cavalcade of new convertibles carrying 40 Vancouver models dressed in latest styles.

The church protests have grown out of the contest to be staged following the parade in Stanley Park.

The public has been invited to take part in the contest by walking in the area while judges select the best-dressed man and woman, teen-age boy and girl, couple and family groups. Prizes have a value of $5.

BODY FOUND

VANCOUVER—The body of a 20-year-old woman was found floating in Howe Sound Thursday near Gambier Island.

Police were not able to identify the woman.

TRAFFIC DEATH

VANCOUVER—The first traffic accident this year in suburban Burnaby was recorded overnight with the death of Joe Weiber, killed in a two-car crash.

Four persons in the second car escaped injury.

Sport Events Boost Bermuda Attractions

Springtime in Bermuda means flowers, mostly lilies. And it signals, among other things, the beginning of the invasion which happens every year of prep school and college students.

More than 4,000 vacationing young people will enjoy such activities as Rugby Week, boat cruises, tea dances and calypso band concerts—plus the usual swimming and bicycling.

The Jack Kramer professional tennis tour, featuring Pancho Gonzales and Lew Hoad will be at the Bermuda tennis stadium April 11-13, and on the 24th, the spectacular Bermuda floral pageant will be held.

There are many mainland residents who annually fly the 600-odd miles to Bermuda to be on hand for the beauty of the flowers presented in the pageant.

Annual payment of the cheapest rent in Bermuda is the centre of pomp and ceremony each April 23 in the Old Towne of St. George.

It's called the Peppercorn Ceremony, dates back to 1816, and involves payment of one peppercorn by the St. George's Freemason's Lodge to the governor of Bermuda for annual rent of the Old State House.

Five days later, an annual international yachting classic gets under way. It features sleek vessels from Canada, the United States and Bermuda.

This mid-ocean resort has five excellent golf courses, while many of the leading hotels and cottage colonies have their own tennis courts.

All types of aquatic sports are in full swing from here on in this year. The coral reefs that encircle this 22-mile-long island chain make for perfect protected sunbathing, surf-boarding, water-skiing and skin diving.

Push bikes can be hired for $1.50 per day or $5 a week, or you can hire motor-assisted bikes for $4.50 a day or $25 a week.

Taxi rates are 28 cents for the first two-fifths of a mile and four cents for each subsequent fifth of a mile.

Colony-wide bus service is available, or a person can hire a horse-drawn carriage. And one of the most scenic, besides cheapest, rides in the world is by the Bermuda ferry service around the colony.

Bermuda has a clean and colorful appeal, combining the warmth of the tropical south with the traditions of an old English settlement.

KITTIES NAMED FOR BIG BANG

CAMPBELL RIVER—Hardware merchant Leon Gagne thinks this Ripple Rock blast is really the "cat's whiskers".

His cat gave birth to three kittens Thursday, two days before the navigation menace was scheduled to be blown up north of here.

Names? Ripple, Rock, Boom!

Letter Routes To Be Extended To Rural Areas

Extension of Victoria letter-carrier service to Belmont Park, Colwood and Langford has been authorized by the post office department, it was announced today.

This means post offices in these districts will be closed and replaced with sub post offices, located to provide adequate service regarding stamp sale, posting of registered mail and letters.

Street letter boxes will be provided for mailing, and will be cleared twice daily on weekdays and once on Sundays and holidays.

When door-to-door delivery starts, all classes of mail will be delivered.

Regulations require that 90 per cent of homes be equipped with correct house numbers and a mail receptacle before letter delivery can be started.

A recent survey showed that to date only 70 per cent of the homes were equipped in this manner.

To get the service in operation, the postal authorities ask that homeowners without mail boxes or mail slots in doors make the necessary arrangements.

Belmont School Completes Plans For Annual Show

LANGFORD—Preparations for the annual bazaar and concert at Belmont Junior-Senior High School, Langford, have been completed.

The gathering will be held Friday, April 18, sponsored by the Belmont parents group.

Managing of the various stalls is in charge of the four districts with Langford responsible for home cooking; Colwood, candy; Metchosin, tea, and Happy Valley, sewing. Students of the school will have complete charge of the concert.

3 Boys Blamed For Fire Scare

DUNCAN—Three boys, two aged 10 and one seven, were believed responsible for lighting matches and tar paper under the floor of the $660,000 Cowichan High School Thursday which sparked request for investigation by the provincial fire marshal.

Fire Chief Pat Clarkson of the North Cowichan volunteer brigade said the boys were just adventuring.

"It is an interesting place for youngsters of their ages," he said. "They apparently lit matches and tar paper just to find their way around."

Earlier, the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver had been asked to investigate the possibility of attempted arson. The request will now be cancelled.

The boys got under the building through ventilation vents under the gymnasium.

There was no damage.

Cowichan Teachers' Strike Off

DUNCAN—The planned strike of Cowichan district school teachers is temporarily off pending recommendations of government conciliation officers.

It had originally been set for April 16.

John Homer, chairman of the board of trustees of School District 65, said today he had not yet received notification that the strike was called off. However, Mrs. W. S. Robertson, Westholme, president of the Teachers' Association, said no further action would be taken until the conciliation report was heard.

This opens the door for negotiations on salary.

Special By-law "D"

"(1) This by-law shall not become effective until sanctioned by the Treasury Board of the Government of Canada and on such sanction the Company, for the purposes of Section 90A of the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act, shall exercise the powers therein conferred to purchase shares of the capital stock of the Company, subject to the terms and conditions of the Act and of this by-law.

"(2) The date set for the commencement of purchase of shares shall be the fifteenth day of May, 1958, or the day following the day this by-law is sanctioned by the Treasury Board, whichever day is the later, and no shares shall be purchased by the Company prior to this date.

"(3) The directors, by resolution, shall fix a price per share to be paid by the Company for the purchase of shares and shall submit this price together with this by-law to the Treasury Board and if the Treasury Board is satisfied, as required by the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act, that the price fixed is fair and reasonable in the circumstances and sanctions this by-law this price shall be the price to be paid by the Company for shares purchased by it and this price shall not be changed without the approval of the Minister of Finance for Canada.

"(4) A register shall be kept giving particulars of offers for sale of shares received by the Company and the price to be paid for shares purchased by the Company shall be the fixed price in effect the day the offer for sale was received at the Head Office of the Company or the day set for the commencement of purchase of shares, whichever date is the later.

"(5) The Company shall purchase all shares offered for sale under the terms hereof but if at any particular time by reason of the limitations imposed by the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act the amount available for the purchase of shares is insufficient to purchase immediately all the shares offered for sale, the amount available shall be applied in approximately equal proportions among the shareholders offered for sale, but in calculating the proportions there shall be no splitting of shares, and the offer for sale of any shares not purchased shall remain in effect and maintain its place on the register unless and until withdrawn by the shareholder by notice in writing to the Company.

"(6) All shares purchased by the Company shall be paid for in cash by the Company in full at the time of purchase but if the seller of the shares so requests the Company may agree to make payment wholly or in part by promissory note or notes of the Company payable at the fixed or determinable future time not later than ten years from the date of the making thereof and bearing a rate of interest fixed by the directors and approved by the Minister of Finance for Canada.

"(7) The voting rights attributable to the share purchased by the Company shall be exercised by such one of the policyholders' directors as is designated for the purpose by a majority of the policyholders' directors."

The Board of Directors has fixed a price of $325 per share for the purchase of shares, subject to the approval of the Treasury Board of Canada.

Every person who has contracted with the Company for a participating policy, and who holds such a policy upon which no premiums are due, is a member of the Company and is entitled to attend and to vote in person or by proxy at general meetings of the Company. The policyholders' directors, deeming the proposal to be fair and equitable, intend to vote the policyholders' proxies they now hold in favor of the confirmation of the By-law. Any policyholder who qualifies as a member may obtain a blank form of proxy on request—therefor in writing to the Secretary of the Company.

The proxy of a policyholder must himself be a qualified policyholder and entitled to vote, and to be valid an instrument of proxy must be filed with the Secretary of the Company prior to April 26th, 1958.

Dated at Montreal, this first day of April, 1958.

F. J. CUNNINGHAM,
Secretary.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q. Can a strawberry barrel be coated with wood preservative without harm to the plants? T.S. Duncan.

A. Wood preservative such as Cuprinol or Timber-Lox are standard preservatives for seed boxes, plant flats and cold frames, and safe to use according to directions where plants are concerned. Tar products and paints should be avoided, at least on the inner surface.

Q. What is the best way of using poultry manure in the garden? Mrs. K.E. Gordon Head.

A. Poultry manure is quite strong for use directly with plants, and since the average home garden contains but a few hens the greatest good is found when the manure is added in layers to the compost heap. It will speed the decomposition of the vegetable waste, and a little manure will enrich a large amount of humus.

Q. Is it true that many of our common flowering plants are poisonous? If so, why do we still grow them? A.L.S. Duncan.

A. Yes, indeed. Among the most commonly grown garden plants which are poisonous are Helleborus niger (the Christmas rose), aconitum (monks-hood), pyrethrum (feverfew or painted-daisy), digitalis (fox-glove) and the seeds of laburnum (golden-rain tree).

Electricity in itself is also fatal to animal life (and consequently to human life), yet we continue to use it, under proper control, every day of our modern lives. The same with these plants.

Soak Lawns Deeply For Best Results

It's sometimes fun to sit on the front steps, idly watering the lawn. But it doesn't do the grass a bit of good.

Give your lawn a thorough soaking at proper intervals. Plan your watering program for the coming summer.

First, check your equipment. You'll need a hose longer than the distance between the outdoor faucet and the front porch. It should be long enough so that when used in combination with a sprinkler the water can reach large areas of lawn with a minimum of moving.

CARE REQUIRED

Whether you use plastic hose or rubber hose, remember that it's only as good as the care you give it. Plastic is lighter to carry, rubber more likely to stand up under rough handling. Turning the nozzle off while the house faucet is still on may cause a plastic hose to burst, and can weaken the rubber variety. Neither should be dragged over pavement.

Once you've finished sprinkling, roll up the hose and store it on a reel or hang it where it will be out of the hot sun.

SLICERS

You can purchase menders or splicers that will join two sections of hose after the bad part has been cut out.

Replace rubber washers in the hose fittings and sprinklers several times throughout the summer.

There are many sprinklers in the market—sprinklers that rotate, oscillate, "walk" or just stand still. Pick one with a pipe, rather than a coarse spray, but not so fine that wind will blow it away.

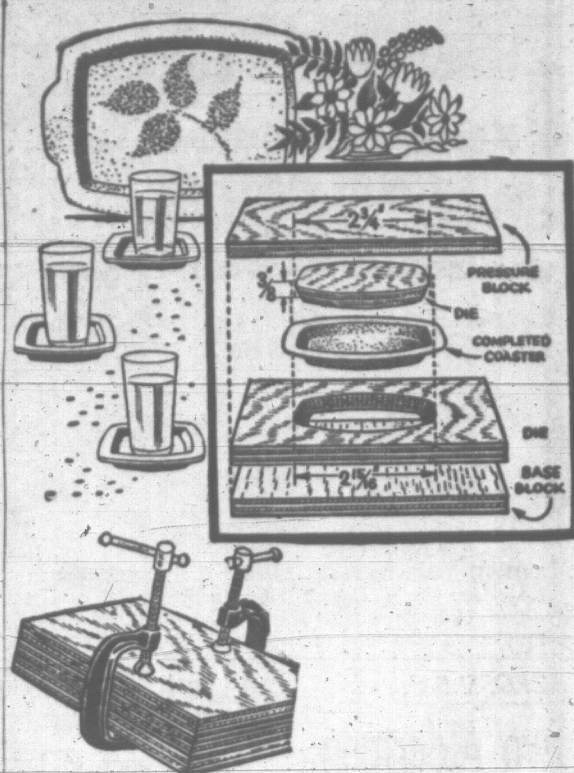

Your sprinkler should cover a large enough area to make frequent moving unnecessary. And it should work equally well at low or high water pressure.

Soak the lawn to a depth of about four inches. Then, depending on the weather, you can forget it for periods up to a week.

Light watering results in roots turning up to get moisture, makes them more susceptible to drying during hot spells.

The grass experts are pretty well agreed that you won't burn the grass by watering it in the sun.

But you'll have to sprinkle longer, since you will lose water due to evaporation.

Fir Plywood Dies For Party Coasters

Here is the way the die is made for casting party coasters. Shapes, cut with a jig saw, can be varied to suit individual tastes. And don't forget: colored cardboard can be used for striking effects.

Die-casts cardboard coasters and trays, renewable for every party occasion, can be produced at home with simple dies made of fir plywood.

Die shapes may be varied, of course, to suit individual purposes and are handily cut with a jig saw. Junior can keep the family supply of these attractive party gadgets always up to date with a few minutes work.

Pressure block, base blocks and matrix of the die for the coasters should be of 1/2-inch fir plywood, while the die itself is of 1/4-inch plywood. For larger trays 1/4-inch dies would be more suitable.

Here's how you or junior can go into production. Cut down a piece of cardboard to the shape of a die but 1/4-inch oversize all around. Soak it in water until pliable. Form the coaster shape then clamp the dies together between the pressure block and the base block until dry.

The finished product may be painted or tinted any combination of colors to match table decorations. Striking effect may be obtained with bronzing powders.

At the cost of new cardboard, additional coasters and trays can be made when new color schemes are desired.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q. Is there any easy way to clean a lawn mower and other yard tools?—W.C.

A. There are several degreasing sprays on the market. Follow spraying with a good hosing and then wipe parts with an oiled rag. Caution: don't use on motor units, unless manufacturer's instructions specifically recommend such treatment.

Q. The shoe of my iron is stained, and the iron is hard to push. Can it be repaired?—K.A.

A. To remove stain, polish the shoe with silver polish. Do NOT use anything harsher as, once shoe is scratched, you're out of luck. After polishing, set heat control on "low" or, for a non-automatic iron, let it warm but slightly. Pass iron once or twice over a piece of waxed paper.

See Barrett's Self-Sealing RANCHLINE Shingles at your dealer today... they're the roof to top your dream home!

SELF-SEALING'S SECRET

- 1 Special Self-Sealing asphalt adhesive, in wide even strips, gives maximum gripping power.
- 2 Because of Self-Sealing, each shingle is completely secured with only three nails—a major cost saving.
- 3 Moisture damage prevented by these escape channels. Scientifically placed, they prevent adhesive from showing on finished roof.
- 4 Vertical and horizontal aligning marks, plus tab-slot construction, make positioning easier and faster.
- 5 Anti-stick strip faces adhesive in bundles... prevents shingles sticking together. Yet, when Self-Sealers are applied, it does not affect sealing action.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Breaking Horse Chestnut Buds Signal Gardeners to Action

By JACK BEASTALL

Looking over my far from complete weather records for past years I cannot convince myself that last winter was exceptional for Victoria. A dry month like March or a warm day in February may prove a record or near record, but such isolated freaks can appear in any year.

The general trend, to me, appears about average, comparing favorably with the past 36 years. Since the blizzard of January, 1950 the winters have acted up a little now and then, but not enough to indicate any definite change in the general weather pattern.

Last weekend seemed to mark the first general activity of gardeners in this area, and since then many have asked whether it is too early to sow this, that and the other.

The guide to starting which I have followed since an old-timer put me wise more than 30 years ago, is the breaking of the horse-chestnut buds. Once these show activity, gardening can commence in earnest.

To make this rule as nearly infallible as a rule can be, the same trees must be watched each year, preferably in one's own locality. Those on Burnside Road which give me my "go-ahead" signal showed bud growth two weeks ago and are now sporting their young leaves.

CALL TO ACTION

This means that the harder vegetables and the long season crops should be in the ground as soon as possible, and that new perennials, trees, and shrubs need planting without delay if they are to become well established before the ground is too dry.

The spring rash of questions regarding the varieties of vegetables which will do best in developing space. These are difficult questions to answer in a positive manner since so many variable factors influence the results.

Continual experimenting with different varieties of both flowers and vegetables (varieties, not kinds) is the only way in which a gardener can find those best suited to his soil and miniature climate which obtains in his garden.

Last year a reader was giving up vegetable growing in disgust. The trend of the conversation indicated he was still growing the varieties which did so well on the Prairies some fifteen years ago. In fact, his seed still came from the same prairie firm.

TRIAL RUNS

I suggested he do a little experimenting before quitting. Instead of buying one pound of his favorite pea seed, to get four or five small packets of different varieties. This he did and found one which was ideal for his soil.

For potatoes, he substituted a ten-pound bag of four varieties for the usual 50 lbs. of his favorite. The crop was larger than usual and one variety pleased him greatly.

Far from quitting vegetables, he is now interested in finding better varieties of other vegetables he usually grows, and some new ones he has never tried.

Gardening, to be successful, should not be a monotonous round of the same thing year after year, but rather a round of continuous experimentation.

The very word "experimenting" is exciting, and the results can be more exciting and certainly more satisfying when it becomes the synonym for "gardening."

'NAIL POLISH' GAUGE

If you have trouble drilling to the exact desired depth with your electric drill, take this tip from home tool specialists.
Mark the measurement on the drill bit with a dab of nail polish. The polish can be peeled off later without harming the bit.

Timely Book On Camellias Helps Amateur

CAMELIAS ILLUSTRATED. Second edition, revised, enlarged. By Morrie L.
Sharp. Sponsored by the Camellia Society. Western Trail Publishing Co., Portland, Oregon, U.S.A.—Price in U.S. $5.

Reviewed by Jack G. Beastall,
Times Gardening Editor

There is a slow but definite trend toward a better appreciation of the Camellia, a serviceable plant for our gardens.

Texture of foliage and bloom combined with the deep green lustre of its leaves make it an accent plant of great value.

Its past neglect has, no doubt, been due to the fact that it thrives best in an acid soil, a condition which may be easily controlled by the use of peat moss and an acid fertilizer.

Coming as the era of the Camellia opens, recent release of the second revised and enlarged edition of Camellias Illustrated will be found most helpful to the amateur gardener.

Well composed and illustrated, by Morrie L. Sharp, of neat format on plate paper, it contains about everything necessary to succeed with this relative of the China tea plant.
A member of the Camellia Society of America, Mr. Sharp is well versed in Camellia culture, and the chapter by gardeners in other sections of the U.S. adds to the belief that the Camellia belt can be extended greatly to the north.

New Lamps All Aglow In Color

NEW YORK (UP) — Bright colors light up new lamps.
Spring lamp collections emphasize color instead of neutral tones popular for the past few years, reported the Lamp and Shade Institute of America.
Top colors are blue, tangerine, melon, yellow, gold, beige and brown. Amethyst, green, and green combined with blue are becoming more popular.
Pink, the rage a while back, now is confined largely to bedroom lamps.

Q—There is a stain in the

color of stain. Wipe with water, then apply ammonia to remove the iodine discoloration. Rinse well.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL.
Remove old flower heads of daffodils and all narcissi, and give a feeding of balanced fertilizer to build the bulb for next year's display. Water in if weather is dry.

Sweet peas raised in pots indoors may be planted out after being gradually hardened to outside conditions.

Plant scabiosa caucasica (blue and white), helenium in variety, solidago (goldenrod) and dwarf and creeping kinds of oenothera (evening primrose).

Azaleas, rhododendrons and other broad-leaved evergreen shrubs may be planted now, since they come wrapped in burlap with a compact rootball.

Onion seedlings should be set out in a well prepared soil. Soot from coal, or wood fires is a fine fertilizer for these.

Plant a few early potatoes.
Winter flowering heathers should have all the flower stems cut back at once, so that new growth will come from below.

Seedlings being grown indoors will need shading from noon sun for a few days after being pricked out. A fine mist spray of clear water will help them to become established.

Bulbs of narcissi grown in soil during the winter for indoor decoration may be planted out now for growing on. Feed, and keep watered until foliage yellows naturally.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By MICHAEL ROSE and ROBIN CLARKE

Question: If you were at Seymour Narrows when they blew up Ripple Rock and were allowed to go as close as you wanted, how close would you go?

(The following answers were given Thursday afternoon:)

D. S. Purden, View Royal Avenue.

"I don't think anyone knows how far the blast will go and I think a person would be very wise to keep as far away as possible. They have already admitted it is the largest TNT blast in the world and I am certain five miles is the nearest I'd want to go."

Purden — Manchester

Mrs. Edna Manchester, 1957 Granite Street.

"It never occurred to me but since you ask I guess about a mile. Even at that I might get blown up. I think the whole thing is kind of dangerous and I don't think they are taking enough care about the safety of the people around the area."

Mrs. Doreen May, 770 Queens Avenue.

"The way it looks to me is that they are taking a lot of care over this explosion and you should be able to get pretty close if they let you. I'd like to get close enough to get a good look, and at a rough guess that would be on the land about half a mile away."

May — Anderson

Malcolm Anderson, 3026 McAnally Road.

"I don't think I'd even bother going there but I might suggest a Social Credit inspection tour of the project 40 seconds before countdown. If given the choice, however, I would prefer to stay in Victoria and watch it on TV. We get very good reception and it is far more comfortable."

Miss Terry French, 326 Simcoe Street.

"You can be quite sure that I wouldn't go any closer than 10 miles. I'd be scared to death. I intend to watch it at home, and if the television set doesn't blow up the family should get a front seat view of the whole show."

French — Kay

Douglas Kay, 1596 Clive Drive.

"I am new to this country and I don't know too much about Ripple Rock, but I think I'd stay as far away as possible. I would certainly like to see the blast first hand, but from a safe and reasonable distance, believe me."

Whaling Ships Jam N.Z. Harbor

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Wellington Harbor Friday gave shelter to the largest fleet of foreign shipping seen here since the war, when 25 Russian whaling ships, including a tanker and the fleet's mother ship, entered the port for a week's stay.

The Russian fleet is on its way back to the Russian Black Sea port of Odessa after whaling operations in the Antarctic.

HIGHWAY FISHERMAN TRAPPED BY LISTENERS

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Ray Golden has a nine-inch black bass he caught Friday in the middle of a highway.

Golden, sports director of radio station KSTN, says he was going to work through a flooded section of the road and found himself following a fish. He chased it and caught it with his hands.

He announced his catch over the air and promptly was deluged with telephone calls informing him it was under the legal limit.

THEY LAPPED IT UP

Jazz Devotees Have Big Night

By AB KENT

Jazz history walled out in Victoria Thursday night as Progressive Artists opened a Fort Street cellar to the tune of two after-hours groups of musicians.

About 150 club members of The Scene and their guests stayed until the wee hours, lapping up cool quantities of jazz by the Chris Gage Trio, of Vancouver, and Victoria's Buddy Glover Quintet.

Promoter Ken Hole, of Vancouver, and local radioman Jim Carney promised The Scene will be a fixture every Friday and Saturday night from now on. Carney is manager and seller of memberships.

Earlier at Club Sirocco a slightly smaller crowd was captivated by Vancouver vocalist Eleanor Collins, who made her Victoria debut in a short program with backing by the Gage trio, also sponsored by Progressive Artists.

Eleanor sang only one set of three but was brought back for two encores.

HER OWN IDIOM

Opening with the old favorite Fine and Dandy, the singer's voice—a style reminiscent of a half dozen Negro voices known to the jazz idiom, yet distinctly "Eleanor"—immediately drew approving nods through the audience.

Now throaty, now a crescendo wail, but always on the "cool" side, the voice weaved its captive spell, completely winning her listeners.

The Vancouver girl smiled and introduced her next selection, one she "couldn't resist. It's April, and I Love April in Paris."

So did her audience, which found as much to applaud in "Love Me or Leave Me." In fact it wouldn't stop clapping until Eleanor returned to the stage, where she announced she would dedicate "St. Louis Blues" to its late composer, W. C. Handy.

And that was enough to put her back in the spotlight for her final number, "Sometimes I'm Happy."

WELCOME BACK

As far as that audience is concerned, Eleanor can come back to Victoria any time she can tear herself away from the demands of Vancouver engagements—and her young family.

Victoria Jazz Society president Buddy Glover indicated VJS may sponsor Eleanor here in a May concert, but no definite plans.

From his Garberesque solo opening, "Birth of the Blues," Gage kept his listeners constantly amused, and pleased with his swinging variations on 10 jazz favorites, backed by bassist Cuddles Johnston and drummer Jim Wightman.

Following the lead-off, Gage featured his bassman on a quiet "These Foolish Things," then lived it up a little with a Shorty Rogers tune, "The Beetle," featuring Wightman on the tubs.

Keester Parade, a Gage specialty in view of the season, developed into a solid beating back-roomish bluesy bit, sparked by a scintilla of percussion.

And so it went, with each man alternately backing and soloing in thoroughly soothing style, whether on the warmer side of cool or the almost haunting version of "An Affair to Remember," recalling tonal expressionist Donald Shirley, whose bassist bowed his instrument like Johnston on this number.

Final piece in the first set was the new Shelley Manne arrangement of "Get Me to the Church on Time," from My Fair Lady, and featuring percussion. During intermission the Glover group did "A Foggy Day," "Over the Rainbow" and "Out of Nowhere," featuring trombonist Ian Macdonald and trumpeter Donnie Clark, with George Hyler on drums and Doug Peaker on bass.

Mile a Second Speed For Space Aircraft

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The X-15, designed to be the first airplane to penetrate outer space, will be able to fly a mile a second at altitudes above 100 miles, North American Aviation said Friday.

The plane, now under development at North American's Los Angeles division, is scheduled to be test flown sometime next year.

An artist's conception of the craft released Friday shows the rocket-powered plane has an unusually heavily vertical stabilizer.

A company spokesman said the heavy stabilizer is used because drag is no problem in the upper atmosphere. In addition, he said, the extra strong sur-

More Striking Power Canada's Aim at NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — Increased firepower for Canada's armed forces will be the main Canadian interest at the Paris meeting of NATO defence ministers. Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes will represent this country at the April 15-17 conference.

Informants said Thursday Mr. Pearkes will discuss with NATO military leaders possible conversion of the RCAF air division in Europe into a strike force and equipping of the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade in West Germany with artillery rockets capable of carrying either conventional or atomic warheads.

The air division now is a defensive force of jet Sabre and CF-100 fighters. With ground-to-air missiles slated to supplant subsonic interceptors, the air division may be converted into a short-range tactical bombing force.

START MUST BE MADE

Officials have said a start must be made soon on re-equipping the 12-squadron, 300-plane air division located at four bases in France and West Germany. They have estimated cost of conversion, whether with new aircraft or missiles, at some $1,000,000,000.

Last fall's Red Army Day parade in Moscow has made a deep impression on Canadian Army officers.

Two City Homes Reported Burgled

Two people reported to city police Thursday that their houses had been broken into since last weekend.

A power saw was stolen from the home of Mrs. D. O'Bryan, 527 Hillside, who said the entry was made between Saturday and Tuesday as the family moved into the premises. Entry was by a basement window.

Ronald Cole, 144 Stroud, said his house was entered between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. Wednesday by means of releasing a door catch after breaking a window. Drawers through the house were ransacked, but apparently nothing was taken.

face of the stabilizer is helpful in steering the craft when it comes back into the earth's atmosphere.

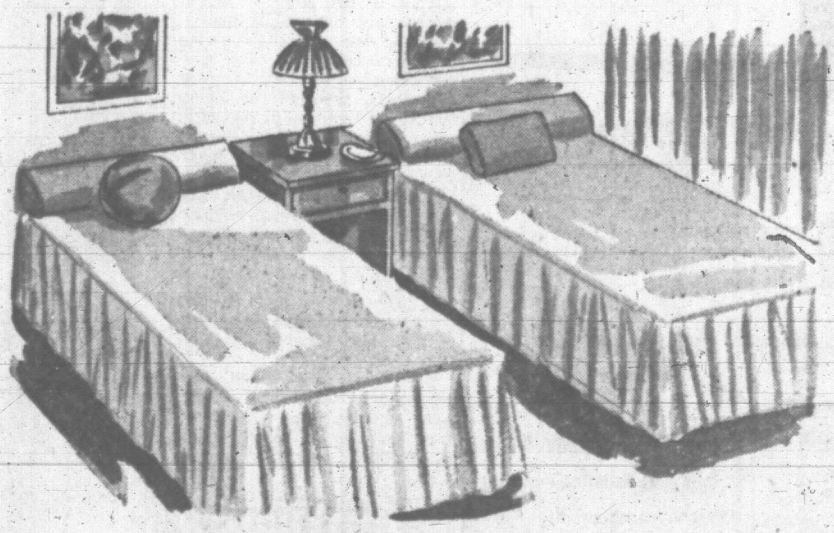

Plans call for launching the X-15 from a B-52 bomber over Wendover Air Force Base, Utah, and landing it at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Another unusual feature is a ventral fin, extending downward from the tail assembly, which will be ejected before the landing. It was described as an easily replaceable item, necessary in the air, but which would be in the way for landing.

THEY'RE NOT DOUBLE SMALL GLASSES

'Jumbo' Beers Sadden Drinkers

The new, "large" glass of beer, selling at 20 cents in city pubs, isn't large enough, judging by complaints telephoned to the Times by "regulars."

And, according to a Times' test, it is actually slightly over one and one half times the size of the 10-cent glass. The 10-cent glass contains roughly 7½ ounces. The 20-cent glass, according to the test, contains about 11½ ounces.

AUTOMATIC

The jumbo glasses were introduced here Tuesday. They are now served automatically by waiters unless the patron asks for a small glass.

In which case, one small glass is brought to the table, instead of two, as has been the practice in the past.

J. E. Neely, city hotelman and past president of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers' Society of B.C., said the jumbo glasses are "better than one and a half times" the standard glass size.

"There's only a shade difference," he said.

However, asked for the actual ounce capacity of the new glasses, Mr. Neely said: "I don't know. I haven't measured them myself."

A number of the complaints phoned to the Times included the charge that the new glass size was, in effect, a price increase.

Mr. Neely said that all customers were happy with the new glass, "except one or two."

"The new glasses are here to stay so there's no use arguing about it," he said. "After all, anybody who wants the regular glass can still get it."

He pointed out that while hotelmen were given sanction to introduce the larger glass, they must continue to make available the old glasses.

Whether they are served singly or not, is up to the hotel operator.

APPOINTED squadron technical officers for the Esquimalt-based Second Canadian Escort Squadron is Cmdr. Kenneth E. Lewis of Saskatoon and Halifax. He will serve in HMCS Crescent, senior ship of the squadron.

Antwerp Diamond Award Presented To Canadian Firm

For the first time in history a Canadian firm has been presented the City of Antwerp Diamond Award. G. S. Morris, Victoria, manager of Peoples Credit Jewellers Ltd., announced here today.

In a ceremony in the mayor's office in Antwerp, Bertrand Gerstein, company president, was given the award by Burgomaster Craeybeck.

It was presented the Canadian firm "for supreme excellence in diamond quality" and for "contributing to the integrity of the jewelry industry, not only in Canada, but all over the world."

'JUMPED ON HER CHEST'

Tiny Charlene Dick, three, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital with 14 rib fractures and multiple bruises and abrasions. Saanich police are seeking two boys observed sitting on her. Medical authorities say tot's condition was serious;

$250,000 For Old Castle?

A price tag of $250,000 should be placed on Craigdarroch Castle for possible sale to the City of Victoria as a museum.

This is the opinion of school board buildings and grounds chairman, Trustee Richard Reeve.

He was commenting on earlier remarks by city authorities that the castle should be converted from school board headquarters to a museum. He opposes the plan.

"The castle is owned by Greater Victoria School Board. Since taking it over the board has completed a great many improvements and renovations."

Barbecues Proposed For Visitors

Replacement of civic dinners for visiting firemen, with city-sponsored salmon barbecues will be suggested to city council Thursday.

The plan could cut civic entertainment costs up to 80 per cent. Mayor Scurrah said the plan was submitted to him anonymously and he would put it before council.

The city has been besieged with requests for civic dinners from numerous organizations which will meet here this year in connection with the B.C. Centenary.

Among the largest groups are the national body of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and the Canadian Lawn Bowling Association.

Normal functions by the city, dinners at hotels, cost about $3 a plate. It is pointed out, a barbecue, especially if prepared by various volunteer groups, thought to be available, could be put up for 50 cents a plate.

"If the weather doesn't permit an outdoor function, it is possible the event could be staged indoors almost as inexpensively," the mayor stated.

Such an event could present an authentic and unique West Coast flavor which would make it more memorable to those taking part, he said.

ATTACK

today in a voice still shocked and choked with emotion:

"I was in the boys' bedroom and happened to glance out of the window. I saw two boys sitting on Charlene and jumping up and down. I ran out and called, 'What do you think you are doing and they went dashing off..."

"I dashed over and picked her up. There was sand in her mouth and ears. I washed her off and put her to bed. It was Friday before I noticed her heavy breathing and the bruises showed."

Mrs. Dick said she then took Charlene to Royal Jubilee emergency ward and police were notified.

SEVEN OR EIGHT

Mrs. Dick said the boys appeared to be seven or eight. She had never seen either before.

They wore jeans and shorts, pinch-waist jackets of a dark cloth. They had no caps.

Mrs. Dick phoned Charlene's mother in Vancouver and told her Charlene was "sick." She didn't know the extent of the injuries.

Mrs. Walter Dick arrived here today and hoped to see Charlene this afternoon.

Mrs. Dick is an employee of Dominion Bridge at Vancouver. Mrs. Dick said she will try to arrange transfer of her daughter to a Vancouver hospital. She has six other children who need her care. They range from two to 13.

Charlene's mother appealed to the parents of the youngsters thought to have carried out the attack.

"It's not that I'm so mad at the children. But the parents should see they are checked before something worse happens. I realize what boys are like. You can't be watching them all the time. But if they were my boys, I'd want to know and even if this story is read to them, it might do some good."

IN FRONT YARD

Charlene's aunt, Mrs. Clarence Dick, who moved here from Vancouver in October last year, said: "If we owned this place we'd fence it. But it happened right in the front yard. I wanted her to stay where I could keep an eye on her. If our dog had been here, he would have looked after her."

"When we were kids, we never heard of this sort of thing. I think parents let their children go out to find their own amusements too much, instead of keeping them home. Although the boys could have been on their way back to school."

By a strange and frightening coincidence, Mrs. Dick was witness to a similar attack on one of her other small children in Vancouver, the same day. Two 13-year-old boys were throwing rocks near her children. When she spoke to them, one of them cuffed one of her little boys and knocked him down.

The Dick children include Walter, 13; Sharon, 10; Melvin, 9; Billy, 8; Bryan, 5; Charlene (who will be four in September), and Jimmy, two.

6 Charges Faced By Victoria Man

Three men appeared in city police court today following a rash of crime over the Good Friday holiday.

Raymond Charles Hunt, 652 Garbally Road, was charged with breaking and entering T. Eaton Co. Ltd. and P. R. Brown Ltd., Broad Street, with intent to commit an indictable offence.

He faces four other charges allegedly committed in February and March in the city, Saanich and Esquimalt.

Gordon Boyle, Glen Court Hotel, was charged with being in the possession of stolen property over the value of $50.

Howard G. Abercrombie, 1203 Blanshard, was charged with breaking and entering National Motors Ltd., 819 Yates Street, with intent to commit an indictable offence.

REMANDED

All were remanded without plea by Magistrate A. I. Thomas until Tuesday.

Police also report burglaries at two auto courts.

Thieves stole $150 from the purse and wallet of Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Burns, Kamloops, at the Redwood auto court. They gained admission through an unlocked bathroom window.

At the Prince Charles Auto Court, $14 was stolen from the cabins of Robert Cote, Sidney Roofing Co., $3 from Harry Ostala, 75 Templeton Drive, and $30 from Gerry Montgomery, Courtenay.

Police reported that Friday was one of the busiest days of the year.

First man to be arrested was Hunt who was found in the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. department store at 4 a.m.

He had in his possession two suitcases, nylon stockings, sporting equipment photographic equipment.

Hunt is also charged with breaking into Bewley's Drug Store, 1301 Esquimalt, on Feb. 28 and stealing merchandise.

In Saanich, he is charged with breaking and entering Super Value Ltd. store, 272 Gorge Road, and committing theft. The offence took place on March 1.

He is accused further of breaking into T. Eaton Co. on March 4 with intent to commit an indictable offence and with breaking and entering the premises of Violet Rowley and Jean H. Andrews, 303 Cook Street, with intent to commit an indictable offence.

RED CROSS AIM ON $79,000 WITHIN SIGHT

Annual Red Cross campaign for funds in Greater Victoria has surpassed the $65,000 mark, Chairman T. Ledley McMaster said today.

The campaign has been extended into April in an effort to reach the goal of $79,500.

Students To Oppose Sloppy Attire

A campaign against improper school wear has been launched by the crusading newspaper "Centralian" at Central Junior High School.

The student paper, in its Easter issue notes the inclusion of a clause in the recently passed Public Schools Act which gives principles the right to regulate acceptable dress for students.

"With the new law in mind, several classes were asked their opinions on what was not acceptable..." the Centralian states.

Here are the results: Not acceptable for girls — large earrings, tight skirts, make-up (other than a little lipstick), not wearing socks, very long skirts, exaggerated hair styles, untidy hair or clothes, hair in curlers and pins.

Not acceptable for boys — fancy haircuts or long hair, untidy, uncombed or greasy hair; pants hanging around hips, motorcycle boots, Wellingtons or flight boots; shirts open down front, wearing jackets in class, leather jackets, V-neck sweaters without shirts.

Restaurateur Wants Trees

Trees should be planted along Victoria downtown sidewalks, restaurateur-owner Paul Arsens suggested to city council Wednesday. He offered to pay costs of an experimental planting on Douglas Street by Paul's Restaurant.

The matter will be discussed by council committee.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

William Fletcher, business editor of a Vancouver newspaper, will address the St. Louis College Alumni Association dinner Monday at 7.15 p.m. at 512 Fort Street.

Mr. Fletcher is a former Victoria newspaperman.

Walter Mothersole, 822 Ralph, was placed on probation and given a suspended sentence in Saanich court Thursday for the common assault of his wife.

He entered into a $500 bond for six months of good behavior.

Court was told by Mrs. Carole Alexandria Elsa Mothersole her husband struck her with his hand, then with his belt, beat her head against a bed headboard and threatened to kill her if she went to police or a lawyer.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Will you please inform me which one of these two sentences is correct: "Between you and me and the gatepost," or "Between you and I and the gatepost."—C.S.D.

A.—"Between you and me" is correct. A rule of thumb is to test by dropping some of the sentence words. For example, it is obvious that "between I and the post" is not grammatical.

Q.—Could you tell me the significance of the stone pillars at the corner of Fernwood and Bay?—B.P.

A.—They were placed there years ago as part of a real estate subdivision scheme. There were originally two of these arches and one was removed two years ago. The remaining arch is also slated for removal as it constitutes a traffic hazard for drivers who want to see around the corner.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

AROUND THE WORLD

With JOHN MANNING

the command was given and then see the spears moving high in a quivering arc towards a coconut 90 yards away and 40 feet off the ground; or to watch a group of Tahitian girls dancing to the fast and exotic beat of drums.

Among the gathering was a Chinese man serving plates of steaming rice from beneath the shade of a sort of low hut made of bamboo and with a tin roof. One fellow, who was a bit drunk, kept throwing huge firecrackers near the rice pot. In all my life I have never seen a madder Chinese.

The so-called bus system of Tahiti is ancient and rather comical. Most of the buses are old open trucks with a low roof covering the back where the passengers sit on benches along the side or on the floor; some even with the driver and on either side of him. These trucks carry not only humans but anything else that will stay aboard.

I was on one this morning. The driver was fat, with a straw hat that came down over his ears and the wheel seemed a toy in his huge hands. After much delay we started off, only to stop a moment later, while a native ran into a Chinese restaurant and brought back to the truck a pot of cooked food; evidently the driver was thirsty for he too got off and came back clutching a bottle of beer. As we drove on he shared this with an old Tahitian sitting beside him.

Inside the truck itself there were boxes of food, one sink and a huge block of ice making a puddle on the floor. Swinging from the back in the direct glare of the sun were four Benito and a number of smaller fish. Out of about 20 passengers I was the only white person and the object of much giggling. Especially when I attempted to tell the driver in Tahitian where I wished to get off.

Another mode of transportation is by motor bicycle. I rented one last Sunday for the day, at a cost of $1.75 and set out around the island, a distance of 90 miles. Along the way I noticed that natives were sitting in front of their huts playing guitars or just talking, and in nearly every river a family or two were swimming. On this island the seventh day is one of complete rest. No matter how good the fishing is a Tahitian will not take his canoe out.

I will never forget coming to the top of one hill and looking down. The sea was moving white against a black ribbon of sand as far as the eye could look and palm trees stood with the tradewind fingering their nodding fronds, as though in awe of such a spectacle; while down from the valley on my right a river flowed whispering and cool into the sea.

A little later I had a flat tire. A Tahitian boy around 18 years old saw me struggling with it and came over. In the hot sun for nearly an hour he helped me. I did not ask him to, he simply knelt down and gave me a hand.

Twenty miles from home and at dusk the tire blew again. I had visions of sleeping on the beach in the company of land crabs, when an old truck came sporting around the bend. A Frenchman, his wife and two daughters were returning from a picnic. He put my bike in the back and I was home in time for supper.

Young Victorian Spends Two Years Abroad on an Average of $2 a Day

By KITTY DIXON

Peggy Woods should write a book, "See Europe on Two Dollars a Day." There is no doubt it would be a best seller.

She has just returned after living abroad in the British Isles and on the Continent for two years, and is now the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Woods, at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanich.

She could give detailed instructions on how to travel in Europe for less than it costs to live in Victoria.

Basic rules are simple:

1. Hitch hike.
2. Sleep at hostels.
3. Eat at hostels or buy food at markets and eat it picnic style.

Peggy admits such a trip is meant for the young and healthy. For one who doesn't mind roughing it, she thinks it is better than going first-class by train and staying in the best hotels.

You meet more interesting people when you hitch-hike. Most of them are Europeans or American tourists.

In Europe, hitch-hiking is a common mode of travel. Two or three girls hitch-hiking together should have no trouble at all according to Peggy, who travelled this way for four months.

Two dollars a day is ample, Peggy found. Hostels charge only 25 or 30 cents a night, and hostel food is good and cheap. Those which don't serve meals usually provide facilities for cooking.

Peggy's advice to would-be travellers thinking of staying at hostels: Take along your own bedsheet and eating utensils, as hostels don't provide them. The latter should include a cup, plate, knife, fork and spoon. She suggests plastic dishes and says you can buy a knife, fork and spoon set made specially for travellers. All three pieces fit together compactly.

Hostels vary in size and condition, but you pay approximately the same at whichever one you stay.

"In Florence," Peggy recalled, "the hostel was the converted summer home of the late dictator, Mussolini. There we had showers and all the comforts of home."

"In Vienna, the hostel was a palace on the edge of the Vienna Woods."

Drawback with most hostels is that doors are locked at 10 p.m., and if you are not in by that time... too bad!

SMOKING BANNED

"German hostels were most regimented of all," Peggy said. "At one I was told to put out a cigarette. If I wanted to smoke, I had to leave the hostel."

Instead of a suitcase, Peggy carried a rucksack for convenience. She kept weight of it to about 25 pounds. Any purchases she made, except for small souvenirs, were mailed home or back to friends in London.

In brief, that is how Peggy Woods travelled and lived in Europe on two dollars a day.

There are extras, of course. Souvenirs and money spent on entertainment are governed by the individual's supply of money.

During her two years abroad, Peggy, who is a trained physiotherapist, worked in London, Edinburgh and outside Zurich, Switzerland. She took other tours of Europe, apart from the hitch-hiking trip. These she made by car, again staying at hostels.

Her travels over, Peggy plans to work in Vancouver after spending two weeks here with her parents.

'There's Gold at Our Own Doorstep'... A Cry That Gave Birth to Leechtown

This is the story of Vancouver's first—and only—gold strike. Of the exciting stampede which followed and the little town that grew and died in the wake of the gold dust.

It starts back in the 1860's when Vancouver Island was still a separate colony. The Hudson's Bay Company had been established on the southernmost tip of the island for only 22 years and a lusty young town named Victoria had only recently grown from a tiny walled settlement.

In those days there was a hefty spirit of rivalry between the mainland and Vancouver's Island. The carbide gold strikes in 1893-94 fanned this rivalry into fever heat, and the citizens of Victoria, jealously determined that the island must equal, if not better this bonanza strike in the north. The time had come, they said, for some sort of planned exploration of Vancouver's Island, to search for minerals and to discover how much land there was for settlement.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR

For three years there was talk but very little action. Then, in 1864, Arthur Kennedy, who had succeeded Sir James Douglas as governor, heard of the plans and he suggested to a group of citizens that they form themselves into a responsible committee to organize funds for the exploration they were talking about.

"Dollar for dollar with the subscribers" was his promise.

The suggestion met with great enthusiasm. Not only was a considerable sum of money raised, but also a company of eager, adventurous men, willing to go exploring.

Capt. Robert Brown, a canny Scot, was leader. He divided his men into work parties and sent each to a different district with instructions to report back to him if they discovered anything of importance.

Bridal Shower

Bride-elect Miss Joyce Maxwell, was honored at a shower at the home of Mrs. Alex McKeachie on Wootton Crescent.

A corsage of pink roses was presented to Miss Maxwell and a corsage of pink carnations to mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. K. Okell. Guests included Mrs. J. Okell, Mrs. A. Amos, Mrs. F. Hughes, Mrs. J. Maxwell, Mrs. R. Doherty, Mrs. E. McConnell, Mrs. E. Curtis, Mrs. W. Walker, Mrs. W. Prior, Mrs. S. Watson, Mrs. G. Andrews, Mrs. R. Etches, Miss Chris Malakoff, Miss Sandra McKeachie and Miss Mary Jean McKeachie.

One of the parties led by Lieut. Peter Leech, proceeded to the mouth of the Sooke River, a few miles from Victoria, and started inland along the river bank.

About six miles from Sooke Inlet, on the sandbars of the river, they struck gold, but the value was not high.

They continued up the river and on July 14, 1864, about 12 miles from the sea, found real gold.

The first 12 pans of dirt, washed out in some instances, 20 feet about the river, with no tools but a shovel and a gold pan, averaged three cents to one dollar a pan.

Leech sent word of the strike by Indian runner, to Capt. Brown, who in turn, lost no time in getting the news to Victoria.

"The diggings, extend for at least 25 miles," he reported. "They should give employment to at least 4,000 men. Many claims will take eight to 10 men to work. The diggings could be wrought with great facility by fluming with the stream. The banks will supply to the whipsaw all the timber that can be required for the miners' purpose. The country abounds with game and the honest miner need never fear but that he can find food enough without much trouble. There is any amount of five-cent dirt and with proper tools, the average prospect is about one bit to a pan. The gold will speak for itself." (One bit was equivalent to 12½ cents).

RAPID GROWTH

You can imagine the excitement! Here was the Eldorado the Victoria citizens had been waiting for—and right at their own back door.

As soon as the news was out prospectors began to flock in from the outside. The first parties went by steamer from Victoria to Sooke Harbor and the trail in from there soon became a rough wagon road.

Within a month, a small mining town rose on the flats where gold was first discovered, with stores, saloons, hotels, gold commissioner's office and other public buildings. The stream where gold was first found was named Leech River. The town—Leechtown. The flats where the town was situated—Kennedy Flats.

By November, 1864, four months after the discovery of gold, some 1,200 miners were at work and by December 10, $2,690 had been collected in miners' licences.

The spring of 1865, Leechtown made the social columns of the Victoria paper, when Governor Kennedy and his pretty daughters made a tour of inspection of the diggings. He also planted two apple trees in the public square in front of the gold commissioner's office.

During 1865, Leechtown grew and prospered. But, in the fall, news came of a rich strike in the Big Bend country in northern British Columbia and many miners decided to have a look. They did not return, to the Leech River field and of course, lost their properties.

For another year there was a certain amount of activity but gradually more and more miners drifted away and the days of the little mining town were numbered.

ONLY GHOSTS NOW

Long afterward a disastrous forest fire swept through the district and obliterated every building but the gold commissioner's office.

Again and again, since the days of the first gold rush, Leech River has seen mining by small operators from lone whites and Chinese to groups of men. They all found gold for there never has been any question the yellow metal was there, but with hand methods they could not begin to remove the huge river boulders in order to get to the pay-dirt gravel.

Private corporations, too, have explored the possibilities of hydraulic power. Placer mining leases along the river have been taken out at varying times. Buildings have been erected in the little town. Once a dam was built and a penstock, 170 feet high to get water needed for power.

But up to this time development has never gone ahead to any great extent.

Heather Scott Married Today in Sun Valley; Vancouver Reception

A lovely wedding was solemnized early this afternoon in Sun Valley, Idaho, when Miss Heather Arlene Scott, daughter of Mrs. Claire G. Scott of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria, became the bride of Kenneth James Baker, Sun Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker of Stanford, Montana.

Baskets and vases of spring flowers decorated the Trail Creek Cabin for the ceremony which was conducted by Rev. W. D. Ellway.

Given in marriage by Dr. J. R. Mortz, the bride wore a cocktail length dress of white brocade. The fitted bodice featured a large boat neckline extending to a deep V in the back. The sleeves were three-quarter length. The wide skirt swept into fullness at the back. A small coronet held her mother's wedding veil. The handmade fingertip veil had insets of lace embroidered with seed pearls and was worn over the face, extending to a point at the back. Red and white roses topped the white Bible she carried which was a gift of her mother.

A beige brocade gown, in cocktail length, was worn by the bride's only attendant, Miss Ann Capodanno, Boston, Mass. The full-skirted dress featured a large boat neckline and was sleeveless. She carried a bouquet of yellow teaseros and wore a matching headdress of roses.

Best man was Kenneth Borchers.

RECEPTION

Receiving guests at a reception held in Trail Creek cabin, mother of the bride wore an afternoon dress of German silk in a pink, turquoise and golden brown print. She topped the outfit with a Russian squirrel stole and wore pink accessories. A pale blue dress with matching coat and hat was worn by the mother of the groom. Toast was proposed by Don Olson, Vancouver; B.C.

For a motor trip to Vancouver, where a reception will be held in the newlyweds' honor Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McConnell, West 12th Avenue, the new Mrs. Baker wore a sheath style dress of navy blue shantung. She completed the ensemble with a matching duster and white accessories.

The young couple plan to live at Ketchikan, Sun Valley, until September, when the groom will return to university.

At the Vancouver reception the bride will cut a three-tier wedding cake which will be centered on the refreshment table with pink and white flowers.

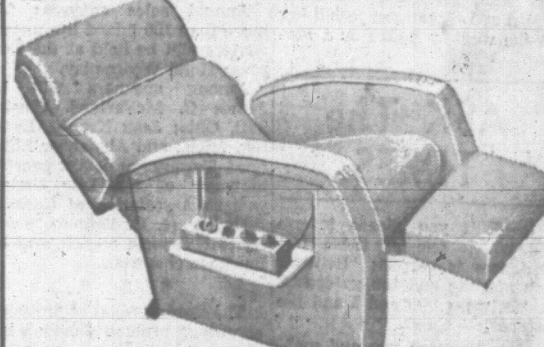

Servitors will be Miss Diane Peters, Miss Annette Shpikula, Miss Alrita Morgan, Miss Merle Dawson and Miss Joan McConnell.

Makes a perfect shower gift at $1.50.

I knew I shouldn't have stayed in that fabric shop today, but every time I turned to leave, another bolt of bright and gay colored fabric would catch my eye... and I was sunk! Materials such as eyelets, polished cloths and cotton brocades were featured, and may I say now... they are all simply beautiful.

For the woman with a busy social spring 'n' summer ahead... the elegant cotton brocades... in blues, beiges and other shades suitable for the season... are just the thing for making up in suits, dresses and even party gowns! A yard (36 inches wide) is selling at $6.95.

If you're the clever seamstress, you'll want to make at least half of your sports wardrobe for this summer because it's so inexpensive. Sailcloth in half a dozen brilliant shades is selling at 89 cents a yard.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Housewives! Do You Have The Time for Beauty Care?

Many women who do their own work, and especially those who have young children, may feel that they do not have time to spend on beauty care. However, this is far from true. They, of all women, have the best opportunity since they are in their homes most of each day and can work beauty care in along with their housework.

Many women who work outside the home would give a lot for the opportunity for skin care which the women in the home has. Dry skin is an almost universal problem sooner or later in a woman's life. The complexion dries as one grows older. This naturally leads to lines. So long as the face and neck are well oiled, lines are slower to appear.

Why not cleanse your face and apply a lubricating cream as soon as your husband leaves in the morning? Leave this on all morning. You can do your work just as efficiently with it on. You may give the laundry man and a few salesmen a shock but they will live through it. The woman in the home has a superb opportunity for skin lubrication!

Of course she also has a chance for short rest periods. I know what you are thinking. "When do I have time to lie down?" If you will just take time for two or three 10 or 15-minute rest periods during the day, you will find that you accomplish just as much or more and certainly arrive at the end of the day with less fatigue. It is a question of your attitude. Take the time!

I used to entertain my young children by doing my exercises. It simply made them wild watching me and of course they tried to do the same things. In fact this became a highlight in their day. It seemed to them to be our playtime and it certainly improved my figure. The only problem was that they nagged me all morning with the question, "Mother, when are you going to do your exercises?"

While the homemaker's duties are myriad and unending, she can carry out a health and beauty routine if she really is interested in doing so.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Essential Daily Routine for Beauty and Health", send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19. Address: Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Leather or Suede Jackets Take on Ultra-Fashion Look

By NONA DAMASKE

A very clothes-conscious friend of mine has been wearing a full-length leather coat for some time. It is most becoming. She is a brunette, and her coat is a delicate pale blue. Most important, she enjoys wearing it.

As you do not see many suede or leather coats being worn in Victoria I went poking around town to find out if they were available, and I discovered quite a few of varying lengths.

One shop in particular said they could order almost any style and have it here within two weeks.

Genuine suede coats, whether short or long, are expensive but with reasonable care will last for many years. A suede garment may be kept fresh and clean with a special cleaner, but it seems to be the thing to allow them to attain that "lived in look."

Grain leather garments are, of course, not as pliable but seem to be available in a greater range of shades. A soft cloth dipped in cool water is the only cleaning aid needed for these leathers.

Leather, whether grain (the name for the shiny type of leather) or suede is windproof, making it ideal for outerwear.

I found a gorgeous full-length coat in that rich rusty shade so often used for suede garments and a 27-inch belted sports jacket in Persian beige (carmel shade). Also a snowy white leather in a straight hanging jacket buttoned to the throat and with a neatly tailored collar.

Somewhat softer in styling was a pale cream leather with a gently rounded collar and a four-button front.

These coats are definitely not meant to be your one and only spring and summer coat but if you can afford to own an extra—and want something smart and different—you might have a look-see.

For the sports car driver this 32-inch Cabretta leather jacket has cuffed sleeves, large cape collar, pleated back and a belt which may be worn or not.

'LOVE STRIKE' SUGGESTED BY SWEDISH WOMAN

STOCKHOLM (UP)—Swedish author Elsie Marie Dreierstroem, 72, urged Sweden's women today to start a "love strike" to force the men folks to their knees—and to the altar.

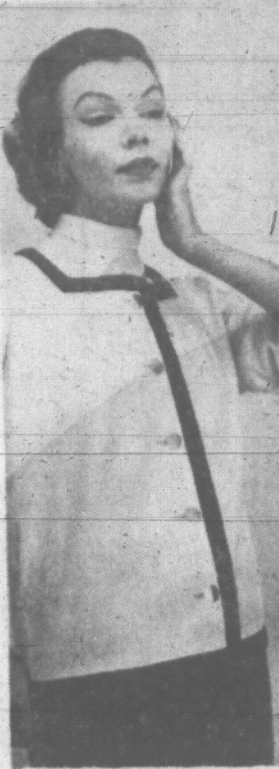

She suggested taking lessons from American girls. "The men only want one thing—to get the cream off the milk," Mrs. Dreierstroem, a widow, wrote in a letter to the local paper of Vaxjo.

"It is always the same story: the woman gives everything and the man nothing—or at least as little as possible."

The remedy is a unanimous "no," Mrs. Dreierstroem said. She took her cue from the 2,000-year-old Greek play Lysistrata. In the play, written by Aristophanes (a man), the women of ancient Greece accomplished great things, including stopping a war, by just such methods.

"The Swedish women must do as the Greek women once did—start a love war," the author advised.

"She should also get a lesson from her American sister on how to get the man, if not on his knees, at least to the altar and to the jeweler."

Elegantly casual this white Cabretta leather "costume" jacket has edging of navy grosgrain, brass button front, and comfortable push-up sleeves.

Holyrood House Scene Of Easter Wedding

Baskets of spring flowers, and ushers were Dick Nelson and Ronald Nelson.

Uncle of the bride, Ted Lupton, proposed the toast at the reception in Holyrood House. A four-tier cake centred the bridal table and the room was decorated with spring flowers.

Rev. Douglas Carr officiated. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white taffeta brocade. The full ballerina-length dress had a fitted jacket featuring a wing collar and lily-point sleeves. Her small pearl encrusted coronet held her chapel-length veil. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of deep pink roses, narcissi and white hyacinth.

Soloists William Alexander and William Shepherd, an uncle of the bride, sang "My World" and "I'll Walk Beside You," accompanied by Mrs. M. Graham.

A pale blue taffeta waltz-length dress was worn by the bride's only attendant, Miss Sharon Atkinson. The scoop neckline was scalloped and the dress was fashioned along princess lines. Rhinestones studded her blue velvet bandeau and she carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations and narcissi.

Rea-Anne Drager Bride In Afternoon Ceremony

St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, was setting for a wedding this afternoon, when Rea Anne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Drager and Const. Kenneth Robert Anderson, RCMP, Nanaimo, and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson of Regina, Sask., exchanged vows.

Rev. Hywel S. Jones officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Tiers of Chantilly lace and net over heavy satin created the bride's lovely gown. The bodice featured a portrait neckline and lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was posed over a hoop. A cap of shell and pearls held her chapel length veil of lace with scalloped edges. She carried a white bible, gift of the groom, topped with a white orchid and long streamers tipped with red rosebuds. Her only jewelry was a gold cross belonging to her mother.

She was given in marriage by her father.

FIVE ATTENDANTS

Matron of honor, Mrs. Fred Brownlee; bridesmaids Mrs. E. Shaw and Mrs. Howard Rollins and bridesmaid Miss Leone Heaps, Winnipeg, were identically dressed in waltz-length gowns of gold crystal charm taffeta. Long chiffon scarves rippled from the bodices of the gowns. They had transparent picture hats and carried bouquets of red carnations and yellow daffodils.

Little Vanessa Partridge was flower girl in a chiffon and lace daffodil yellow dress. She had a band of feather carnations in her hair and carried a bouquet of red carnations and daffodils. Cpl. D. Gore Hickman, RCMP, was best man and Cpl. H. Drybrough, Staff Sgt. W. Austin and Const. R. Chapman were ushers.

A four-tier cake topped with yellow roses centred the bridal

PUZZLES and PASTIMES

GET GRANDMA OFF THE HOOK

IN EASTER PRIME

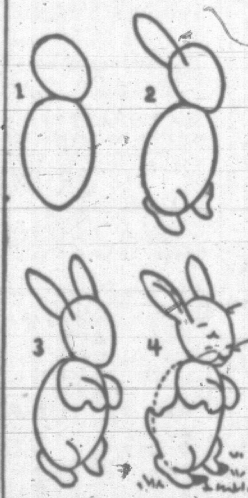

Grandma has designed a new fer to avoid putting the same color in any adjacent spaces. She has suggested using blue, yellow and violet. Remember, no two spaces that touch are to bear the same color.

THIS FIGURES, IF YOU'RE SMART

An enigmatic figure is expressed poetically below. You must read between the lines, so to speak, to identify it. Just equal are my head and tail. My middle slender as can be. Whether I stand on head or heel. 'Tis all the same to you or me. But if my head should be cut off. The fact is true, although 'tis strange. My head and body severed thus. Immediately to nothing change. To what does this refer? The clues should make it easy to figure out.

EGGSACT ART?

Eggs act as guides in drawing Binnie the Bunny, above. Begin by drawing two eggs, as in step 1. Continue to add lines as indicated in steps 2 and 3. Erase dotted line and add finishing touches shown in step 4. Now see if you can draw the figure again from memory.

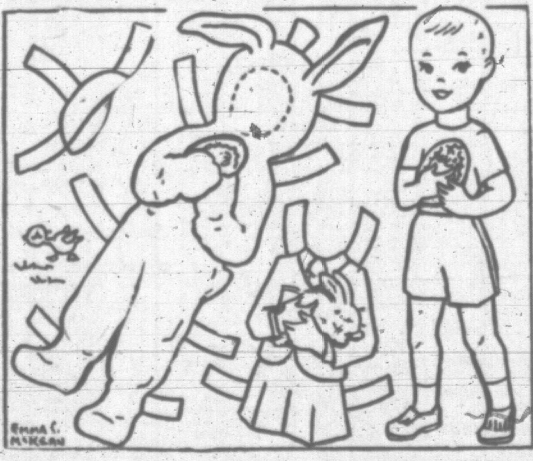

GONE, BUT... From what can you take the whole and have some left?

Answer: From the word 'whole'.

Two creatures associated with Easter eggs are missing from the diagram above. How quickly can you restore them to the scene? To begin, draw a line from both.

BILLY'S TOGS ARE JUMP AHEAD

Billy has two new Easter outfits, one of which, a bunny costume, makes him resemble a space man with big ears. The other outfit is one he intends to wear to school. Will you help him try them on?

Color boy, his suit and cap, and put a little bit of pink color in the bunny costume ears. Use crayons or colored pencils for coloring. Paste boy on wrapping paper, notebook or construction paper. Press under a book. When dry, carefully cut around outside lines. Cut out the dotted circle on the bunny costume before you try it on.

CAN YOU...

1. Pat your head and rub your tummy with a circular motion at the same time. 2. Turn about about five times and walk a straight line?

IT'S YOUR MOVE

By MILLARD HOPPER

See if you can guide White to a win in six moves. It's White's turn; he's traveling up the board.

This game is unique in that neither side achieves a king.

Troubled World To Mark Easter Seeking Comfort

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Resurrection of Christ—man of peace—will be commemorated in Easter services this weekend in a world troubled by a nuclear-age cold war.

Millions of Christians in Old Jerusalem, in many other lands and even far north of the Arctic Circle, will find comfort and reassurance in the message that "the Lord is risen."

It is not only a holy day, but a cheery harbinger of spring weather in many regions that suffered a harsh winter. It is a day for wearing colorful new finery in Easter parades. For children it is the day of the Easter bunny and Easter eggs.

For many it is a time for travel and family reunions. Jerusalem, a traditional gathering spot for tourists and pilgrims at Eastertide, is bustling with visitors for the first time since 1955. Middle East strife and tensions held down attendance the last two years, but with the atmosphere relatively calm, Jerusalem's hotels were filled to capacity.

POPE'S MESSAGE

Thousands of visitors are in Rome for Easter services, and many will gather in St. Peter's Square to hear the annual Easter message of Pope Plus XII. It is expected to be a renewal of his plea for peace.

The Pope's address will be carried to millions by radio and by Eurovision, a television hook-up in several countries. Vatican radio will rebroadcast the address in 24 languages.

Radio Free Europe Friday began broadcasting Easter messages by American clergymen to people behind the Communist Iron Curtain.

What is expected to be the world's northernmost Easter sunrise service will be conducted near the old Eskimo village of Thule, Greenland, 660 miles north of the Arctic Circle, by an American army chaplain. The service will start at 3.45 a.m., a few minutes before sunrise there.

U.S. SERVICES

In Washington, an annual sunrise service will be held in a natural amphitheatre of the formal gardens at Walter Reed Army Medical Centre. The Knights Templar will sponsor a sunrise service in the Arlington National Cemetery Amphitheatre.

Moravians will conduct their 186th Easter service in Winston-Salem, N.C., an event expected to attract about 40,000 persons. Bands will play through the streets at 2 a.m., waking the people.

The musicians later will lead the crowds to the Moravian graveyard known as "the city of the equal dead," where there are more than 3,500 headstones, all similar.

SPEAKER, at a sunrise service in Beacon Hill Park Easter Sunday at 7.45 will be Dr. J. B. Rowell of Central Baptist Church. The service will be the 15th sponsored here by Victoria camp of the Gideons International of Canada. It will be held on high, rocky ground east of the entrance from Douglas and Michigan Streets. — (Times photo)

Famed Religious War Relic Arrives Back in Portugal

LISBON (UPI)—The battered wooden cross known as the "Christ of the Trenches" is back in Portugal after towering for 40 years over the graves of Portuguese troops who died in Flanders Field.

The relic, which was carried into battle by Portuguese troops in the First World War, will be installed over the tomb of Portugal's "Unknown Soldier" in the Batalha monastery, 100 miles north of here. Its arrival Friday coincided with the 41st anniversary of the death of the first Portuguese soldier in the war.

NEWS OF CITY CHURCHES

Two Sunrise Services Set for Easter Morn

Victoria camp, the Gideons International in Canada, will hold its 15th annual sunrise service in the park at 7.45.

Location of the service will be on the high, rocky ground east of the roadway entering the park from Douglas and Michigan Streets.

Dr. J. B. Rowell, Central Baptist Church, will give the Easter message. Music will be provided by the Salvation Army band under bandmaster William Hastings. Maj. Frank Watson, Victoria corps, will lead singing. The service will be carried over a public address service for those wishing to remain in their cars.

At Belmont Avenue Church Easter Day Rev. T. L. W. Lanceley will preach on "The Foundation of Hope" and "On Living with Bereavement."

"The Resurrection Story of Christ" will be the theme of a service in the Scout Hall at 11.30 a.m. Rev. E. F. Church will preach and a children's choir will sing. The service will end with Holy Communion.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday at 6, 7, 8 and 9.15 a.m. Dean Brian Whitlow will preach at Choral Eucharist at 11, and there will be children's service at 3 p.m.

Rev. C. Leighton-Streight will preach on "News from a Graveyard." There will be no evening service.

Rev. Emma M. Smiley will conduct both Easter services in Victoria Truth Centre Sunday on the subjects, "Glory to God" and "Legend of the Easter Lily."

Two morning services will be held in Centennial United Church Sunday, a family service at 9.30 and the regular service at 11. At both, Rev. Douglas B. Carr will preach on "The Supreme Surprise," last in a Lenten series "From the Cradle to the Grave." At night, Howard D. Johnstone will speak on "I Now Believe." There will be a reception of new members.

Services of Holy Communion will be held at the Church of Our Lord Sunday at 7.30, 8.30 and 11 a.m. Bishop D. A. G. Rankin will preach on "Here In Our Midst." Assisting the bishop at the 11 a.m. service will be Rev. F. C. Rawlinson. At the evening Communion service, the bishop will preach on "The Empty Tomb." The choir will sing the Easter anthem "Hail, Gladdening Light" by Sir John Stainer.

Rev. Cecil Barner's sermon topics at Douglas Street Baptist Church Easter Day will be "As It Began to Dawn" and "The Mission of the Living Christ."

God's infinite power and goodness will be emphasized at services in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday. The lesson-sermon on "Unreality" will include the Scriptural account of Jesus' healing of the woman who had "a spirit of infirmity 18 years and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself." (Luke 13.) Correlative passages will be read from Mary Baker Eddy's

"Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures."

Rev. R. E. S. Toms will speak in the Evangelistic Temple Sunday on "The Manifestation of the Sons of God" and "Many Infallible Proofs of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ From the Dead."

Legal Argument Wins Man Freedom

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Leopoldo Torres Delgado hid from the law for 14 years and emerged this week claiming immunity from homicide prosecution.

His lawyers argued he could have got no more than 13 years in prison, and that much time now had elapsed; besides, he was tired of hiding. The Supreme Court set him free.

LONDON (AP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers moved near the English League soccer championship today with a 1-0 victory over lowly Portsmouth — a victory that gave the Wolves a five-point lead as the season moved into its final stages.

A first-half penalty goal by halfback Edwin Clapp clinched both points for Wolves and gave the leaders a total of 57 points.

A LAST GRAND GESTURE

Ripple Rock Went Off With Incredible Beauty

By STUART KEATE

CAMPBELL RIVER—Like a veteran performer determined to give his best, in his farewell appearance, Old Man Ripple Rock staged a death scene today that was truly memorable.

Out of the fatal, cataclysmic blow came incredible beauty.

Hardened newsmen gasped audibly as the grey-black design hung for seconds in the sky, as though posing for the funeral pictures.

The first violent upsurge of spume and rock seemed followed by a second and yet a third, fractions of a second apart.

But the three pinnacles of salt water, acid and debris merged perfectly into a pattern that might have been painstakingly assembled by an artist.

Photographers who feared they might miff the now-or-never picture found they had time for five or six exposures.

It was estimated the blast took four seconds to reach its zenith and five to descend.

A clear wave of exhilaration swept over the press bunker at the awesome combination of the power and the glory.

One reporter started applauding. It was a form of tribute, unconscious and therefore doubly meaningful, to the engineers who had toiled for 2½ years to bring about this monumental moment of destruction.

Rain Squall Ripple's Last Fling?

Times City Editor

CAMPBELL RIVER — You'd have thought the sky had shaken loose . . .

Seconds after the giant plume of the Ripple Rock blast had arced downward, and shock waves were chopping at the surrounding shoreline, the rain came.

For 30 minutes the Campbell River was given a heavy drenching and it left you wondering.

Was it a natural squall that had been threatening since day-break? Would it have hit if the destruction of "Big Rip" had been delayed a day?

Or had all that man-made power under the waters of Seymour Narrows double-crossed the elements and brought one of the heaviest downpours the district had seen in many months?

The people of Campbell River like to think it was that old rock's final fling. And they'll remember the rain along with the awesome picture of the blast itself.

In a bunker just over a mile from the explosion centre, press observers felt the blast before they saw anything.

Perhaps a second and one-half passed after the count-down ended and the "fire" order

And then, of course, there wuz all those people who held rock and ripple parties in front of their TV sets this morning.

BULLETIN

CAMPBELL RIVER — At 1:50 this afternoon, Works Minister Howard Green announced the Ripple Rock blast had been successful. He said soundings showed that 47 feet had been blown off the top of the rock, seven feet more than expected.

By DON INGHAM, Times Staff Reporter
CAMPBELL RIVER — A huge, grey cloud, rising slowly 800 feet into a pattern with all the symmetry of a maple leaf, today marked the almost certain end of Ripple Rock as a navigation menace.

Final surveys have not been made, but in the opinion of Dr. Victor Dolmage, Vancouver, one of the engineers who master-minded this $3,100,000 project in Seymour Narrows, the removal of the top 40 feet of the rock with 1,375 tons of high explosive was a success.

Dr. Dolmage, the man who pressed the button that fired this largest peace-time non-atomic blast, spoke from a steel and concrete bunker on Quadra Island, just 2,500 feet from the centre of the mighty blast.

"It is the impression of all of us here that it was a success," Dr. Dolmage said just minutes after the blast.

Awesome Majesty

Just a split second after the count-down — "three, two, one, fire" — the seething surface of the water over the rock rose with awesome majesty.

Rock was hurled 1,000 feet into the air, and fragments could be seen flying as far away as 1,500 feet from the centre of the blast.

Some clearly landed on Quadra and Maud Islands.

After the rock, a cloud of water, steam, gas, and debris spread throughout the 2,500-foot width of the Narrows, completely blocking the view to the north.

As the cloud dissipated slowly to the north, the raging surface of the water came into view, as a foaming mass of white anger.

RIPPLES FROM THE ROCK

Sea birds appeared to survive the blast. They were seen flying overhead before the shock wave had died down, and, as the "tidal waves" of water flowed, several of the birds rode in the troughs.

Prior to the blast, some people "guesstimated" that the waves would be 20 feet high. Said CBC announcer Bill Herbert: "I hope they're wrong."

The press-radio-TV bunker was only 29 feet above water.

The tense final seconds of the countdown were dramatized for radio and TV listeners by the steady beeps in the background of the Dominion Observatory time signal.

At Painter's famous fishing lodge all the pictures of famous people who have caught big tyces were removed from the walls and chalk numbers marked up to guide replacement after the blast.

The tremendous explosion shook Campbell River, eight miles south. The Canadian Press reported houses shuddered "for a split moment" but there was no other recognizable effect.

Rain began to fall seconds after the blast exploded 500 feet into the air.

It was believed the concussion may have literally "shaken loose" the moisture from scattered clouds.

The federal government gave away B.C. Centennial silver dollars to reporters and photographers at a press conference Friday at which federal works department officials briefed the press on arrangements.

The 75 or so accredited press representatives were obliged to sign a document releasing the federal government from any damage claims. Then they were handed their badges and the silver dollars, the latter to make the release form a binding document.

The merchants of Campbell River know a good thing when they see it—and they've seen a good thing in today's explosion.

Hotel and auto courts were doing a tourist-season business.

Some officials were housed as far away as Courtenay, 23 miles to the south.

One enterprising merchant was advertising Ripple Rock souvenirs, tiny chunks of the rock—presumably retrieved by skin divers—with a short printed history of the rock. The only drawback to his plan was that he was closed Friday, the day the influx hit its peak.

A dry run of the Ripple Rock blast which was to eliminate the west coast's worst navigational hazard was carried out Friday morning. The dress rehearsal went off without a hitch.

A fisheries department vessel placed fish cages to be picked up immediately after the blast.

Fish in the cages will be checked for the effect which the great explosion of 2,750,000 pounds of dynamite will have on them.

The Times Tofino correspondent reported: "Nothing seen, felt or heard, Tofino or Ucluelet."

The seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory recorded the shock "well," a spokesman there said.

Actual authentic reports on shock intensity measured here and duration of the seismograph recording must await return of scientists from the blast site.

Three parachute flares were fired at five-minute intervals prior to the explosion.

They were sent up from the Maud Island bunkers at 9.15, 9.20 and 9.25 a.m.

Cuba 'War of Nerves' May Erupt After Easter

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's "total, implacable war" against Cuban President Fulgencio Batista began today as a war of nerves.

This Caribbean island was tense but relatively calm. The big push "to be free or to perish"—as Castro put it in his declaration of war against the dictator—may not come until after Easter holidays end Monday morning.

Some rebel sources in Havana claim the Roman Catholic Church has been friendly to the 31-year-old rebel leader's cause, and that he would not want to antagonize the hierarchy by open attacks during religious celebrations.

There have been no signs of Castro's long-threatened call for a general strike. Rumors in Havana had said the bearded insurgent leader would issue the call from his mountain hide-out Tuesday.

Castro claimed 50,000 supporters would then pour into the streets, halt all commerce and do battle with the police and the army.

But the government, with the backing of the powerful Cuban Confederation of Labor, has vowed there will be no strike. Workers have been authorized to kill anyone who urges them to walk off the job. Those who strike will lose their jobs permanently. Employers have been threatened with jail if they close down their businesses.

Castro's declaration of war went into effect at one minute past midnight—but not a shot was heard in downtown Havana at that time and there were no reports of stepped-up rebel activity from anywhere in Cuba.

Castro had pledged: "From this instant on, the country is in a state of total war against the tyranny of Batista. The war will be waged implacably."

Havana abandoned its traditionally gay mood. Streets, night spots and hotels were almost deserted. Rebel sympathizers, who claimed they had

Sight to Remember for Lifetime

BY AB KENT
Times Reporter

I saw Ripple Rock blow its top and felt the earth tremble at a distance of 4½ miles.

I shall always remember it. My wife, Marion, her brother John and I were at an obscure vantage point on an old logging road about a mile north of the John Hart dam.

We found it by accident as we scouted the area Friday night before RCMP road-blocks were imposed.

There were five boys from Campbell River who had camped there overnight and we stopped when we saw their fires.

Apert from them we had the lookout to ourselves.

Farther along buses took load after load of the curious to a point on Frog Mountain, about four miles from Ripple Rock itself.

"We left our car at the dam and walked to the 400 foot level. We had no radio to check whether or not the operation would go off."

The quiet of teenagers were soaked by overnight rain but stuck to their post until five minutes before the blast.

At that point they decided the dull, overcast, foggy Seymour Narrows was not going to clear enough for the spectacle and packed their sleeping bags. We stayed on.

The boys were walking back and behind-trees up the road when the explosion burst.

We nearly missed it ourselves.

John and I stood side by side on a log; Marion on the ground peering between us. I squinted through binoculars at the misty Narrows, unable to distinguish anything.

It looked like rain any minute.

John held his movie camera as Marion stood with mouth

open in case of concussion.

Zero hour was here and I looked away for a moment.

Suddenly Marion cried "There go the rockets!" and we saw their parallel, vertical line against the haze—then it happened.

The flash appeared beside the rockets' trails, its black and white pattern etched against the greyness.

John's movie camera whirled. He paused a moment to wind and then groaned.

The lens cap still covered his telephoto lens and the 10 feet of color film which we had hoped to keep for home movie posterity went blank.

Logging Pioneer Sees Big Blow

By Staff Reporter

CAMPBELL RIVER—Oldest "Very Important Person" watching the Ripple Rock blast from a guest bunker north of Campbell River, both from point of view of actual years of life and experience with the Ripple Rock country, was R. D. Merrill of Seattle.

This 89-year-old patriarch of the Pacific Northwest logging industry first saw Seymour Narrows in 1885, when his family acquired land in the area for logging purposes.

He first went through Seymour Narrows in 1898 in a rowboat with one other man, when they became stormbound and had to stay overnight on Maud Island, that forms the southern boundary of the narrows.

"And I shot a deer out of season, too," this fine, old gentleman reported with a twinkle in his eye.

His company operated there as Merrill, Ring and Co., and Mr. Merrill, who snapped pictures of the blast with the best of the press photographers, is still the owner of the land where the observation bunkers were built.

He was accompanied at the blast scene by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Bloedel, formerly of Vancouver and now of Seattle.

Mr. Bloedel, son of the J. H. Bloedel, noted Washington and B.C. lumberman, is the director of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

ing the big boom were Dr. Andrew Needler and Dr. John P. Tully from the fisheries biological station at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo.

MPs-elect Walter Matthews of Nanaimo and Harry McQuillan of Comox-Alberni were in the crowd, with B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Comox MLA Dan Campbell.

Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, federal deputy minister of public works, was top man of a number of public works department officials who have worked on the project for years. Also present were U.S. Army officers representing the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Assistant commissioner C. S. Harrison of the RCMP, Victoria, headed a detachment of more than 100 Mounties who supervised security and traffic arrangements.

From the University of B.C. were Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president, and Dr. Gordon Shrum, one of B.C.'s noted physicists.

Flood-Battered California Faces New Storm Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California, declared a major disaster area by President Eisenhower, braced itself today for still more rains during the Easter weekend.

The new storm front brewing in the Pacific was expected to hit sudden northern California today, reach San Francisco tonight and move on to southern California by midnight. But the weather bureau said it is not expected to be as heavy as the almost incessant rains which have brought nearly all streams to flood stage or over during the last two weeks.

Heavy seas battered the coast Friday with waves up to 40 feet high as rain-swollen rivers and creeks blocked highways, flooded thousands of acres of farmland and loosed new mudslides in suburban areas.

Thus far 13 persons have died in the storms, including a Japanese truck gardner who shot himself fatally because his $4,000 crop of vegetables had been wiped out.

THEY'RE NOT DOUBLE SMALL GLASSES

'Jumbo' Beers Sadden Drinkers

The new, "large" glass of beer, selling at 20 cents in city pubs, isn't large enough, judging by complaints telephoned to the Times by "regulars." And, according to a Times' test, it is actually slightly over one and one half times the size of the 10-cent glass. The 10-cent glass contains roughly 7½ ounces. The 20-cent glass, according to the test, contains about 11½ ounces.

AUTOMATIC

The jumbo glasses were introduced here Tuesday.

They are now served automatically by waiters unless the patron asks for a small glass.

In which case, one small glass is brought to the table, instead of two, as has been the practice in the past.

J. E. Neely, city hotelman and past president of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers' Society of B.C., said the jumbo glasses are "better than one and a half times" the standard glass size.

"There's only a shade difference," he said.

However, asked for the actual ounce capacity of the new glasses, Mr. Neely said: "I don't know, I haven't measured them myself."

A number of the complaints phoned to the Times included the charge that the new glass size was, in effect, a price increase.

Mr. Neely said that all customers were happy with the new glass, "except one or two."

"The new glasses are here to stay so there's no use arguing about it," he said. "After all, anybody who wants the regular glass can still get it."

He pointed out that while hotelmen were given sanction to introduce the larger glass, they must continue to make available the old glasses.

Whether they are served singly or not is up to the hotel operator.

MONTE ROBERTS

The editor of Maclean's Magazine has sounded a call to arms, a summons to do battle against the sack dress. The editor of Maclean's Magazine says: "We are boycotting all women who wear the sack dress. We expel them from the human race. We deny their existence. Women who wear sack dresses will not be admitted to our presence."

And more of the same.

(Need I mention the editor of Maclean's Magazine is a male, and the "we" is a masculine pronoun?)

In the briefest possible terms, the editor of Maclean's puts it this way: "We declare war on the sack dress. Who'll join us?"

And, in the briefest possible terms, I answer him thusly: "Not me."

This may come as a surprise to constituents who remember I was one of the 5,568 commentators who, on learning of the sack dress for the first time, rushed into print with:

"On 110 pounds of potatoes, a sack looks good." From this, you might have gathered the impression I do not like the sack dress.

This impression is completely correct.

I loathe, abhor, detest, and can get along without the sack dress.

Even when it is called, with euphemistic sophism, a chemise.

But I will not join an army which has declared war on the sack dress, and wishes to outlaw wearers of same from the human race.

The reason is, wearers of the sack dress are females, and females will refuse to be outlawed from the human race by mere males.

Females do not dress to please males, thus there is no point in males boycotting females because of their dress. Females do not dress to please other females, either.

Females do not even dress to please themselves. How could females dress to please themselves, when they never know what pleases them?

But, if males launched an all-out war against, for instance, the sack dress, this would be immediately and irrevocable proof to the females that the sack dress was the mostest of the bestest.

Anything a male doesn't like, from mayonnaise to Liberace, females just simply adore.

It is for this reason I refuse to have anything to do with the crusade proposed by the editor of Maclean's Magazine. (I mentioned he was a man, so of course he doesn't understand women.)

I, personally, am going to launch my own crusade, which is to persuade My Favorite Wife to acquire a sack dress.

In the hopes that this will be another of my losing crusades—and perhaps the finest of them all.

'JUMPED ON HER CHEST'

$250,000 For Old Castle?

A price tag of $250,000 should be placed on Craigdarroch Castle for possible sale to the City of Victoria as a museum. This is the opinion of school board buildings and grounds chairman, Trustee Richard Reeve.

He was commenting on earlier remarks by city authorities that the castle should be converted from school board headquarters to a museum. He opposes the plan.

"The castle is owned by Greater Victoria School Board. Since taking it over the board has completed a great many improvements and renovations."

Barbecues Proposed For Visitors

Replacement of civic dinners for visiting firemen, with city-sponsored salmon barbecues will be suggested to city council Thursday.

The plan could cut civic entertainment costs up to 80 per cent. Mayor Scurrah said the plan was submitted to him anonymously and he would put it before council.

The city has been besieged with requests for civic dinners from numerous organizations which will meet here this year in connection with the B.C. Centenary.

Among the largest groups are the national body of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and the Canadian Lawn Bowling Association.

Normal functions by the city, dinners at hotels, cost about $3 a plate. It is pointed out, a barbecue, especially if prepared by various volunteer groups, thought to be available, could be put up for 50 cents a plate.

"If the weather doesn't permit an outdoor function, it is possible the event could be staged indoors almost as inexpensively, the mayor stated.

Such an event could present an authentic and unique West Coast flavor which would make it more memorable to those taking part, he said.

"I was in the boys' bedroom and happened to glance out of the window. I saw two boys sitting on Charlene and jumping up and down. I ran out and called, 'What do you think you are doing, and they went dashing off...'"

"I dashed over and picked her up. There was sand in her mouth and ears. I washed her off and put her to bed. It was Friday before I noticed her heavy breathing and the bruises showed."

Mrs. Dick said she then took Charlene to Royal Jubilee emergency ward and police were notified.

SEVEN OR EIGHT

Mrs. Dick said the boys appeared to be seven or eight. She had never seen either before.

They wore jeans and shorts, pinch-waist jackets of a dark cloth. They had no caps.

Mrs. Dick phoned Charlene's mother in Vancouver and told her Charlene was "sick." She didn't know the extent of the injuries.

Mrs. Walter Dick arrived here today and hoped to see Charlene this afternoon.

Mr. Dick is an employee of Dominion Bridge at Vancouver.

Mrs. Dick said she will try to arrange transfer of her daughter to a Vancouver hospital. She has six other children who need her care. They range from two to 13.

Charlene's mother appealed to the parents of the youngsters thought to have carried out the attack.

"It's not that I'm so mad at the children. But the parents should see they are checked before something worse happens. I realize what boys are like. You can't be watching them all the time. But if they were my boys, I'd want to know and even if this story is read to them, it might do some good."

IN FRONT YARD

Charlene's aunt, Mrs. Clarence Dick, who moved here from Vancouver in October last year, said: "If we owned this place we'd fence it. But it happened right in the front yard. I wanted her to stay where I could keep an eye on her. If our dog had been here, he would have looked after her."

"When we were kids, we never heard of this sort of thing. I think parents let their children go out to find their own amusements too much, instead of keeping them home. Although the boys could have been on their way back to school."

By a strange and frightening coincidence, Mrs. Dick was witness to a similar attack on one of her other small children in Vancouver, the same day. Two 13-year-old boys were throwing rocks near her children. When she spoke to them, one of them cuffed one of her little boys and knocked him down.

The Dick children include Walter, 13, Sharon, 10, Melvin, 9, Billy, 8, Bryan, 5, Charlene (who will be four in September), and Jimmy, two.

6 Charges Faced By Victoria Man

Three men appeared in city police court today following a rash of crime over the Good Friday holiday.

Raymond Charles Hunt, 652 Garbally Road, was charged with breaking and entering T. Eaton Co. Ltd. and P. R. Brown Ltd., Broad Street, with intent to commit an indictable offence.

He faces four other charges allegedly committed in February and March in the city, Saanich and Esquimalt.

All were remanded without plea by Magistrate A. I. Thomas until Tuesday.

Police also report burglaries at two auto courts.

At the Prince Charles Auto Court, $14 was stolen from the cabins of Robert Cote, Sidney Roofing Co., $3 from Harry Ostala, 75 Templeton Drive, and $30 from Gerry Montgomery, Courtenay.

Police reported that Friday was one of the busiest days of the year.

First man to be arrested was Hunt who was found in the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. department store at 4 a.m.

He had in his possession two suitcases, nylon stockings, sporting and photographic equipment.

Hunt is also charged with breaking into Bewley's Drug Store, 1301 Esquimalt, on Feb. 28 and stealing merchandise.

RED CROSS AIM ON $79,500 WITHIN SIGHT

Annual Red Cross campaign for funds in Greater Victoria has surpassed the $65,000 mark, Chairman T. Ledley McMaster said today.

The campaign has been extended into April in an effort to reach the goal of $79,500.

Students To Oppose Sloppy Attire

A campaign against improper school wear has been launched by the crusading newspaper "Centralian" at Central Junior High School.

The student paper, in its Easter issue notes the inclusion of a clause in the recently passed Public Schools Act which gives principals the right to regulate acceptable dress for students.

"With the new law in mind, several classes were asked their opinions on what was not acceptable..." the Centralian states.

Here are the results: Not acceptable for girls — large earrings, tight skirts, make-up (other than a little lipstick), not wearing socks, very long skirts, exaggerated hair styles, untidy hair or clothes, hair in curlers and pins.

Not acceptable for boys — fancy haircuts or long hair, untidy, uncombed or greasy hair; pants hanging around hips, motorcycle boots, Wellingtons or flight boots; shirts open down front, wearing jackets in class, leather jackets, V-neck sweaters without shirts.

Restaurateur Wants Trees

Trees should be planted along Victoria downtown sidewalks restaurant-owner Paul Arsena suggested to city council Wednesday. He offered to pay costs of an experimental planting on Douglas Street by Paul's Restaurant.

The matter will be discussed by council committee.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

William Fletcher, business editor of a Vancouver newspaper, will address the St. Louis College Alumni Association dinner Monday at 7.15 p.m. at 512 Fort Street.

Mr. Fletcher is a former Victoria newspaperman.

Walter Mothersole, 822 Ralph, was placed on probation and given a suspended sentence in Saanich court Thursday for the common assault of his wife.

He entered into a $500 bond for six months of good behavior.

Court was told by Mrs. Carole Alexandria Elsa Mothersole her husband struck her with his hand, then with his belt, beat her head against a bed headboard and threatened to kill her if she went to police or a lawyer.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please inform me which one of the two sentences is correct: "Between you and me and the gatepost," or "Between you and I and the gatepost."—C.S.D.

A.—"Between you and me" is correct. A rule of thumb is to test by dropping some of the sentence words. For example, it is obvious that "between I and the post" is not grammatical.

Q.—Could you tell me the significance of the stone pillars at the corner of Fernwood and Bay?—B.P.

A.—They were placed there years ago as part of a real estate subdivision scheme. There were originally two of these arches and one was removed two years ago. The remaining arch is also slated for removal as it constitutes a traffic hazard for drivers who want to see around the corner.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems.

APPOINTED squadron technical officer for the Esquimalt-based Second Canadian Escort Squadron is Cmdr. Kenneth E. Lewis of Saskatoon and Halifax. He will serve in HMCS Crescent, senior ship of the squadron.

Young Victorian Spends Two Years Abroad on an Average of $2 a Day

By KITTY DIXON

Peggy Woods should write a book, "See Europe on Two Dollars a Day." There is no doubt it would be a best seller.

She has just returned after living abroad in the British Isles and on the Continent for two years, and is now the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Woods, at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanich.

She could give detailed instructions on how to travel in Europe for less than it costs to live in Victoria.

Basic rules are simple:

1. Hitch hike.
2. Sleep at hostels.
3. Eat at hostels or buy food at markets and eat it picnic style.

Peggy admits such a trip is meant for the young and

You meet more interesting people when you hitch-hike. Most of them are Europeans instead of fellow Canadian or American tourists.

In Europe, hitch-hiking is a common mode of travel. Two or three girls hitch-hiking together should have no trouble at all, according to Peggy, who travelled this way for four months.

Two dollars a day is ample, Peggy found. Hostels charge only 25 or 30 cents a night, and hostel food is good... and cheap. Those which don't serve meals usually provide facilities for cooking.

Peggy's advice to would-be travellers thinking of staying at hostels: Take along your own bedsheet and eating utensils, as hostels don't provide them. The latter should include a cup, plate, knife, fork and spoon. She suggests plastic dishes and says you can buy a knife, fork and spoon set made specially for travellers. All three pieces fit together compactly.

Hostels vary in size and condition, but you pay approximately the same at whichever one you stay.

"In Florence," Peggy recalled, "the hostel was the converted summer home of the late dictator, Mussolini. There we had showers and all the comforts of home."

"In Vienna, the hostel was a palace on the edge of the Vienna Woods."

Drawback with most hostels is that doors are locked at 10 p.m., and if you are not in by that time... too bad!

SMOKING BANNED

"German hostels were most regimented of all," Peggy said. "At one I was told to put out a cigarette. If I wanted to smoke, I had to leave the hostel."

Instead of a suitcase, Peggy carried a rucksack for convenience. She kept weight of it to about 25 pounds. Any purchases she made, except for small souvenirs, were mailed home or back to friends in London.

In brief, that is how Peggy Woods travelled and lived in Europe on two dollars a day. There are extras, of course. Souvenirs and money spent on entertainment are governed by the individual's supply of money.

During her two years abroad, Peggy, who is a trained physiotherapist, worked in London, Edinburgh and outside Zurich, Switzerland. She took other tours of Europe, apart from the hitch-hiking trip. These she made by car, again staying at hostels.

Her travels over, Peggy plans to work in Vancouver after spending two weeks here with her parents.

Heather Scott Married Today in Sun Valley; Vancouver Reception

A lovely wedding was solemnized early this afternoon in Sun Valley, Idaho, when Miss Heather Arlene Scott, daughter of Mrs. Claire G. Scott of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria, became the bride of Kenneth James Baker, Sun Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker of Stanford, Montana.

Baskets and vases of spring flowers decorated the Trail Creek Cabin for the ceremony which was conducted by Rev. W. D. Ellway.

Johnny's Lister's orchestra played wedding music.

Given in marriage by Dr. J. R. Mortiz, the bride wore a cocktail length dress of white brocade. The fitted bodice featured a large boat neckline extending to a deep V in the back. The sleeves were three-quarter length. The wide skirt swept into fullness at the back. A small coronet held her mother's wedding veil. The handmade fingertip veil had insets of lace embroidered with seed pearls and was worn over the face, extending to a point at the back. Red and white roses topped the white Bible she carried which was a gift of her mother.

A beige brocade gown, in cocktail length, was worn by the bride's only attendant, Miss Ann Capodanno, Boston, Mass. The full-skirted dress featured a large boat neckline and was sleeveless. She carried a bouquet of yellow teaseros and wore a matching headress of roses.

RECEPTION

Receiving guests at a reception held in Trail Creek cabin, mother of the bride wore an afternoon dress of German silk in a pink, turquoise and golden brown print. She topped the outfit with a Russian squirrel stole and wore pink accessories. A pale blue dress with matching coat and hat was worn by the mother of the groom.

Toast was proposed by Don Olson, Vancouver, B.C.

For a motor trip to Vancouver, where a reception will be held in the newlyweds' honor Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCoinell, West 12th Avenue, the new Mrs. Baker wore a sheath style dress of navy blue shantung. She completed the ensemble with a matching duster and white accessories.

The young couple plan to live at Ketchum, Sun Valley, until September, when the groom will return to university.

At the Vancouver reception the bride will cut a three-tier wedding cake which will be centered on the refreshment table with pink and white flowers.

For Bride-Elect

A shower cake with "Best Wishes, Eleanor" written on the top centred the refreshment table at a party given in honor of Miss Eleanor Morrison, Mrs. D. Lotzer and Miss Eleanor Hanley were co-hostesses at the former's home on Winston Crescent. A green and yellow basket held gifts. A corsage of red roses was presented to the bride-elect, while her mother, Mrs. I. Morrison, received white carnations. Games were played and a buffet supper enjoyed. Invited were Mrs. C. ### 'There's Gold at Our Own Doorstep'... A Cry That Gave Birth to Leechtown

This is the story of Vancouver's Island's first—and only—gold strike. Of the exciting stampede which followed and the little town that grew and died in the wake of the gold dust.

It starts back in the 1860's when Vancouver Island was still a separate colony. The Hudson's Bay Company had been established on the southernmost tip of the island for only 22 years and a lusty young town named Victoria had only recently grown from a tiny walled settlement.

In those days there was a hefty spirit of rivalry between the mainland and Vancouver's Island. The cariboo gold strikes in 1859-61 fanned this rivalry into fever heat, and the citizens of Victoria, jealously determined that the island must equal, if not better this bonanza strike in the north. The time had come, they said, for some sort of planned exploration of Vancouver's Island, to search for minerals and to discover how much land there was for settlement.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR

For three years there was talk but very little action. Then, in 1864, Arthur Kennedy, who had succeeded Sir James Douglas as governor, heard of the plans and he suggested to a group of citizens that they form themselves into a responsible committee to organize funds for the exploration they were talking about.

"Dollar for dollar with the subscribers" was his promise.

The suggestion met with great enthusiasm. Not only was a considerable sum of money raised, but also a company of eager, adventurous men, willing to go exploring.

Capt. Robert Brown, a canny Scot, was leader. He divided his men into work parties and sent each to a different district with instructions to report back to him if they discovered anything of importance.

Bridal Shower

Bride-elect Miss Joyce Maxwell, was honored at a shower at the home of Mrs. Alex McKeachie on Wootton Crescent.

A corsage of pink roses was presented to Miss Maxwell and a corsage of pink carnations to mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. K. Okell. Guests included Mrs. J. Okell, Mrs. A. Amos, Mrs. F. Hughes, Mrs. J. Maxwell, Mrs. R. Doherty, Mrs. E. McConnell, Mrs. E. Curtis, Mrs. W. Walker, Mrs. W. Prior, Mrs. S. Watson, Mrs. G. Andrews, Mrs. R. Etches, Miss Chris Malakoff, Miss Sandra McKeachie and Miss Mary Jean McKeachie.

One of the parties led by Lieut. Peter Leech, proceeded to the mouth of the Sooke River, a few miles from Victoria, and started inland along the river bank.

About six miles from Sooke Inlet, on the sandbars of the river, they struck gold, but the value was not high.

They continued up the river and on July 14, 1864, about 12 miles from the sea, found real gold.

The first 12 pans of dirt, washed out in some instances, 20 feet about the river, with no tools but a shovel and a gold pan, averaged three cents to one dollar a pan.

Leech sent word of the strike, by Indian runner, to Capt. Brown, who in turn, lost no time in getting the news to Victoria.

"The diggings extend for at least 25 miles," he reported. "They should give employment to at least 4,000 men. Many claims will take eight to 10 men to work. The diggings could be wrought with great facility by fluming the bed of the stream. The banks will supply to the whipsaw all the timber that can be required for the miners' purpose. The country abounds with game and the honest miner need never fear but that he can find food enough without much trouble. There is any amount of five-cent dirt and with proper tools, the average prospect is about one bit to a pan. The gold will speak for itself." (One bit was equivalent to 12 1/2 cents).

RAPID GROWTH

You can imagine the excitement! Here was the Eldorado the Victoria citizens had been waiting for—and right at their own back door.

As soon as the news was out prospectors began to flock in from the outside. The first parties went by steamer from Victoria to Sooke Harbor and the trail in from there soon became a rough wagon road.

Within a month, a small mining town rose on the flats where gold was first discovered, with stores, saloons, hotels, gold commissioner's office and other public buildings. The stream where gold was first found was named Leech River. The town—Leechtown. The flats where the town was situated—Kennedy Flats.

By November, 1864, four months after the discovery of gold, some 1,200 miners were at work and by December 10, $2,690 had been collected in miner's licences.

The spring of 1865, Leechtown made the social columns of the Victoria paper, when Governor Kennedy and his pretty daughters made a tour of inspection of the diggings. He also planted two apple trees in the public square in front of the gold commissioner's office.

During 1865, Leechtown grew and prospered. But, in the fall, news came of a rich strike in the Big Bend country in northern British Columbia and many miners decided to have a look. They did not return to the Leech River field and of course, lost their properties.

For another year there was a certain amount of activity but gradually more and more miners drifted away and the days of the little mining town were numbered.

ONLY GHOSTS NOW

Long afterward a disastrous forest fire swept through the district and obliterated every building but the gold commissioner's office.

Again and again, since the days of the first gold rush, Leech River has seen mining by small operators from local whites and Chinese to groups of men. They all found color for there never has been any question the yellow metal was there, but with hand methods they could not begin to remove the huge river boulders in order to get to the pay-dirt gravel. Private corporations, too, have explored the possibilities of hydraulic power. Placer mining leases along the river have been taken out at varying times. Buildings have been erected in the little town. Once a dam was built and a penstock, 170 feet high to get water needed for power.

But up to this time development has never gone ahead to any great extent.

U.S. Interests Voice Interest in Business

NEW YORK (BUP) — Canada's rising interest in trade with Red China at last is finding a few champions in the United States.

They are few and far between. The general position of business leaders as well as leaders of both American political parties is that trade with Red China gives aid and comfort to a potential and actual enemy of the west. Also that Russia has the really valuable part of Red China's trade sewed up and that it's potential value is not worth the effort.

It is on these grounds that American businessmen and politicians justify the government in preventing American subsidiary companies in Canada and all other foreign lands from trading with Red China.

The American-controlled auto companies in Britain, Germany and elsewhere have been discouraged from selling to Red China just as Ford of Canada was.

The fact that in four years, Britain's exports to Red China have risen to only $33-million is often cited in the U.S. as proof that the potential of a big trade between Red China and the west simply does not exist.

Yet some Britons and Canadians who have been to Red China persist in believing there is a big potential trade there for the West.

WOULD END BLOCKADE

They have been joined by an important American voice—that of the influential New York Journal of Commerce. The Journal of Commerce has opposed the American blockade of non-strategic goods for Red China all along. Now the paper has come out for an end of the blockade and a determined American effort to capture a big share of the Red China market.

The paper's publisher, Eric Ridder, and its editor, Dr. H. E. Luedicke, have just returned from Moscow, where they interviewed Nikita Khrushchev. The Soviet boss told them the regards free international trade as the one sure way to end the cold war.

Dr. Luedicke said this means that the western world and especially the U.S. and Canada are facing a huge threat of Soviet trade competition starting right now—and that it will come in five years or less.

Said Dr. Luedicke: "The two chief prizes in this match will be China and India—two mar-

Aluminum Price Cut Annoys U.S. Producers

NEW YORK (BUP) — U.S. aluminum producers are increasingly upset over the 2-cent a pound price cut brought about by Aluminum, Ltd., of Canada. They are talking of asking for a tariff to hold the American price up.

The three American producers, Alcoa, Kaiser and Reynolds all followed the Canadian cut, but against their wishes. As they see it, the price cut is not likely to stimulate sales in North America or on the world market generally.

They contend the Canadians cut the price mainly to protect their big market in Britain from Russian inroads. Russia sold enough aluminum in the United Kingdom last year to make a substantial dent in Canada's sales.

However, suggestions for a tariff to raise the American price have not advanced very far.

OTTAWA IN THE RED

February Financing Operated at Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's monthly financial operations during February were in the red for the first time since April, 1957, but over the year a surplus remained, although less than half the previous year's.

A February deficit of $70,400 was shown in the regular monthly financial statement issued Thursday night by Finance Minister Fleming. That compared to a surplus for the previous February of $7,800,000.

The last previous deficit, in April, 1957—first month of the fiscal year in question—amounted to $48,000,000.

During the first 11 months of the fiscal year ended March 31, the government operated in the black, but the surplus of $251,400,000 was down sharply from the $544,100,000 shown in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Mr. Fleming has forecast an eventual surplus for the year of $80,000,000.

Revenues in February were $338,600,000 while expenditures were $409,000,000. For February, 1957, revenues totalled $350,300,000 and expenditures $342,500,000.

These committees will be headed by regional directors and deputy directors. An executive committee of the council will be composed of the council chairman, deputy chairman, the six regional directors and the deputy directors of the committees in Toronto and Montreal.

Usual Spring Upswing Trend Absent in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Which way U.S. business in April? For most Americans this week, the picture was anything but clear.

Job hunters could expect increased hiring in home building, road construction, and projects connected with defence.

But in most manufacturing industries—and in mining and transportation—the outlook was for more layoffs and retrenchments beyond those already announced in March.

Taking the economy as a whole, signs of the usual spring upturn were conspicuous by their absence.

More than half the steel industry's productive capacity stood idle this week. Output was estimated by the American Iron and Steel Institute at 1,298,000 ingot tons. Even allowing for absenteeism on Good Friday, this was the smallest for any strike-free week since 1949.

FAST ACTION

The U.S. Congress, hurrying home for the Easter holidays, whipped a sheaf of anti-recession bills through the legislative process. Ready for President Eisenhower's signature at week's end was a bill designed to pump an extra $1,800,000,000 into the federal highway program.

Other proposals getting rush treatment in Congress would step up the tempo of federal spending on procurement of civilian items and on public works. All are planned as a shot-in-the-arm for business.

Tot Suffers Savage Beating From Boys in Front of Home

By PETE LOUDON
A three-year-old girl is in hospital here today after a savage attack, apparently by two older boys, in the front yard of a Colquitz Avenue home, at noon Thursday.

Her attackers, still sought by Saanich police, left her ears and mouth clogged with sand.

Her condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital was "serious" Friday, though improved today.

"It appears as though her chest was jumped upon," a medical authority said.

TOO MUCH YULE SPIRIT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Joan Robinson, 27, testified her husband hit her on the head with their Christmas tree. She was granted an annulment of their marriage Friday. Lucien E. Robinson, 27, telephone lineman, was sentenced Dec. 31 to six months in jail on a wife-beating charge.

Police are seeking two boys who were observed by Charlene's aunt, Mrs. Clarence Dick, 2976 Colquitz. She said they were sitting on Charlene but ran away as she approached.

Charlene told her aunt the boys' names were "Bobby and Peter" or "Bobby and Sandy." Mrs. Dick has looked at class pictures of all students at Craigflower and Tillicum Schools, but has been unable to recognize the boys.

Anyone able to assist in finding them has been asked to contact Saanich police.

Charlene, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dick of Vancouver, has been visiting with her aunt since January.

SURPRISE DRENCHING

Rain Last Fling For Ripple Rock?

By LLOYD BAKER
Times City Editor

CAMPBELL RIVER—You'd have thought the sky had shaken loose . . .

Seconds after the giant plume of the Ripple Rock blast had arced downward, and shock waves were chopping at the surrounding shoreline, the rain came.

For 30 minutes the Campbell River was given a heavy drenching and it left you wondering.

Was it a natural squall that had been threatening since daybreak? Would it have hit if the destruction of "Big Rip" had been delayed a day?

Or had all that man-made power under the waters of Seymour Narrows double-crossed the elements and brought one of the heaviest downpours the district had seen in many months?

The people of Campbell River like to think it was that old rock's final fling. And they'll remember the rain along with the awesome picture of the blast itself.

In a bunker just over a mile from the explosion centre, press observers felt the blast before they saw anything.

47 Feet of Water Shown Over Former Ship Menace

By DON INGHAM, Times Staff Reporter
CAMPBELL RIVER—The Ripple Rock blast of 9.31 a.m. today was pronounced an "unqualified success" at 2 p.m. by Howard Green, Minister of Public Works.

He announced officially that preliminary hydrographic surveys showed 47 feet of clear water at mean low tide.

This was seven feet more than the objective of 40 feet.

In his announcement the minister said the tunnel, 300 feet below the rock, was still intact, and some of the instruments in it were still ticking.

But the two pinnacles had disappeared in the awesome explosion. It was in the top of the pinnacles that the explosive was stored.

A huge, grey cloud, rising slowly 800 feet into a pattern with all the symmetry of a maple leaf, marked the end of the rock as a navigational menace.

Before the final surveys had been made, Dr. Victor Dolmage, Vancouver, one of the engineers who master-minded this $3,100,000 project in Seymour Narrows, said the removal of the top 40 feet of the rock with 1,375 tons of high explosive was a success.

Dr. Dolmage, the man who pressed the button that fired this largest peace-time, non-atomic blast, spoke from a steel and concrete bunker on Quadra Island, just 2,500 feet from the centre of the mighty blast.

As the cloud dissipated slowly

After the rock, a cloud of water, steam, gas, and debris spread throughout the 2,500-foot width of the Narrows, completely blocking the view to the north.

Some clearly landed on Quadra and Maud Islands.

LONDON (AP)—Wolverhampton Wanderers moved near the English League soccer championship today with a 1-0 victory over lowly Portsmouth.

A victory that gave the Wolves a five-point lead as the season moved into its final stages.

A first-half penalty goal by halfback Edwin Clamp clinched both points for Wolves and gave the leaders a total of 57 points.

RIPPLES FROM THE ROCK

Sea birds appeared to survive the blast. They were seen flying overhead before the shock wave had died down, and, as the "tidal waves" of water flowed, several of the birds rode in the troughs.

Prior to the blast, some people "guesstimated" that the waves would be 20 feet high.

Said CBC announcer Bill Herbert: "I hope they're wrong."

The press-radio-TV bunker was only 20 feet above water.

The tense final seconds of the countdown were dramatized for radio and TV listeners by the steady beeps in the background of the Dominion Observatory time signal.

At Painter's famous fishing lodge all the pictures of famous people who have caught big tyees were removed from the walls and chalk numbers marked up to guide replacement after the blast.

The tremendous explosion shook Campbell River, eight miles south.

The Canadian Press reported houses shuddered "for a split moment" but there was no other recognizable effect.

Rain began to fall seconds after the blast exploded 500 feet into the air.

It was believed the concussion may have literally "shaken loose" the moisture from scattered clouds.

The federal government gave away B.C. Centennial silver dollars to reporters and photographers at a press conference Friday at which federal works department officials briefed the press on arrangements.

The 75 or so accredited press representatives were obliged to sign a document releasing the federal government from any damage claims. Then they were handed their badges and the silver dollars, the latter to make the release form a binding document.

The merchants of Campbell River know a good thing when they see it—and they've seen a good thing in today's explosion.

Hotel and auto courts were doing a tourist-season business.

Some officials were housed as far away as Courtenay, 28 miles to the south.

One enterprising merchant was advertising Ripple Rock souvenirs, tiny chunks of the rock—presumably retrieved by skin divers—with a short printed history of the rock. The only drawback to his plan was that he was closed Friday, the day the influx hit its peak.

A dry run of the Ripple Rock blast which was to eliminate the west coast's worst navigational hazard was carried out Friday morning. The dress rehearsal went off without a hitch.

A fisheries department vessel placed fish cages to be picked up immediately after the blast.

Fish in the cages will be checked for the effect which the great explosion of 2,750,000 pounds of dynamite will have on them.

The Times Tofino correspondent reported: "Nothing seen, felt or heard, Tofino or Ucluelet."

The seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory recorded the shock "well," a spokesman there said.

A LAST GRAND GESTURE

Ripple Rock Went Off With Incredible Beauty

By STUART KEATE

CAMPBELL RIVER—Like a veteran performer determined to give his best, in his farewell appearance, Old Man Ripple Rock staged a death scene today that was truly memorable.

Out of the fatal, cataclysmic blow came incredible beauty.

Hardened newsmen gasped audibly as the grey-black design hung for seconds in the sky, as though posing for the funeral pictures.

The first violent upsurge of spume and rock seemed followed by a second and yet a third, fractions of a second apart.

But the three pinnacles of salt water, acid and debris merged perfectly into a pattern that might have been painstakingly assembled by an artist.

Photographers who feared they might miff the now-or-never picture found they had time for five or six exposures.

It was estimated the blast took four seconds to reach its zenith and five to descend.

A clear wave of exhilaration swept over the press bunker at the awesome combination of the power and the glory.

One reporter started applauding.

It was a form of tribute, unconscious and therefore doubly meaningful, to the engineers who had toiled for 2½ years to bring about this monumental moment of destruction.

Sight to Remember for Lifetime

By AB KENT
Times Reporter

I saw Ripple Rock blow its top and felt the earth tremble at a distance of 4½ miles.

I shall always remember it.

My wife, Marion, her brother John and I were at an obscure vantage point on an old logging road about a mile north of the John Hart dam.

We found it by accident as we scouted the area Friday night before RCMP road-blocks were imposed.

There were five boys from Campbell River who had camped there overnight and we stopped when we saw their fires.

Apart from them we had the lookout to ourselves.

Farther along buses took load after load of the curious to a point on Frog Mountain, about four miles from Ripple Rock itself.

The quiet of teenagers were soaked by overnight rain but stuck to their post until five minutes before the blast.

At that point they decided

the dull, overcast, foggy Seymour Narrows was not going to clear enough for the spectacle and packed their sleeping bags. We stayed on.

The boys were walking back and behind trees up the road when the explosion burst.

We nearly missed it ourselves.

John and I stood side by side on a log, Marion on the ground peering between us. I squinted through binoculars at the misty Narrows, unable to distinguish anything.

It looked like rain any minute.

John held his movie camera as Marion stood with mouth

open in case of concussion. Zero hour was here and I looked away for a moment.

Suddenly Marion cried "There go the rockets!" and we saw their parallel, vertical line against the haze—then it happened.

The flash appeared beside the rockets' trails, its black and white pattern etched against the greyness.

John's movie camera whirled. He paused a moment to wind and then groaned.

The lens cap still covered his telephoto lens and the 10 feet of color film which we had hoped to keep for home movie posterity were blank.

... RIPPLE ROCK SAW ROCK IN 1885

Logging Pioneer Sees Big Blow

By Staff Reporter

CAMPBELL RIVER—Oldest "Very Important Person" watching the Ripple Rock blast from a guest bunker north of Campbell River, both from point of view of actual years of life and experience with the Ripple Rock country, was R. D. Merrill of Seattle.

This 89-year-old patriarch of the Pacific Northwest logging industry first saw Seymour Narrows in 1885, when his family acquired land in the area for logging purposes.

He first went through Seymour Narrows in 1898 in a rowboat with one other man, when they became stormbound and had to stay overnight on Maud Island, that forms the southeastern boundary of the narrows.

"And I shot a deer out of season, too," this fine, old gentleman reported with a twinkle in his eye.

His company operated there as Merrill, Ring and Co., and Mr. Merrill, who snapped pictures of the blast with the best of the press photographers, is still the owner of the land where the observation bunkers were built.

He was accompanied at the blast scene by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Bloedel, formerly of Vancouver and now of Seattle.

Mr. Bloedel, son of the J. H. Bloedel, noted Washington and B.C. lumberman, is the director of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

Who's Who Saw Blast

CAMPBELL RIVER—A muddy acre of land at Menzies Bay overlooking Seymour Narrows, today was populated by a veritable "who's who" of Canadian government, science, and public information.

This was a clearing made by the federal government to house the bunkers from which 250 observers watched the mighty Ripple Rock blast.

There were two bunkers on a hill sloping to the water's edge. The lower housed reporters, photographers and thousands of dollars worth of the world's finest photographic equipment.

In the second higher up the slope, a double-decked structure that housed invited guests and radio crews, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Federal Public Works Minister Howard Green headed a long list of celebrities.

From the University of B.C. were Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president, and Dr. Gordon Shrum, one of B.C.'s noted physicists.

Read-Admiral Herbert S. Rayner and Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes represented the armed services, and among the scientists watching the big boom were Dr. Andrew Needler and Dr. John P. Tully from the fisheries biological station at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo.

MPs-elect Walter Matthews of Nanaimo and Harry McQuillan of Comox-Alberni were in the crowd, with B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Comox M.L.A. Dan Campbell.

Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, federal deputy minister of public works, was top man of a number of public works department officials who have worked on the project for years. Also present were U.S. Army officers representing the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Assistant commissioner C. S. Harrison of the RCMP, Victoria, headed a detachment of more than 100 Mounties who supervised security and traffic arrangements.

Flood-Battered California Faces New Storm Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—and creeks blocked highway flooded thousands of acres farmland and loosed new mudslides in suburban areas. Thus far 13 persons have died in the storms, including a Japanese truck gardener who himself fatally because a $4,000 crop of vegetables had been wiped out.

The new storm front brewing in the Pacific was expected to hit sudden northern California today, reach San Francisco to-night and move on to southern California by midnight. But the weather bureau said it is not expected to be as heavy as the almost incessant rains which have brought nearly all streams to flood stage or over during the last two weeks.

Heavy seas battered the coast Friday with waves up to 40 feet high as rain-swollen rivers

sounded before the waters started to heave over the twin-peak rock. In that brief moment or two, our bunker shook and you sensed, more than heard, a deep, penetrating rumble.

Then the waters opened up. The whole of the narrows erupted in breath-taking, dreadful beauty.

This was the death of Ripple Rock at the hands of man. More explosive was igniting than had ever been used before in a controlled powder blast.

At its peak, the destruction of Ripple Rock might be described as being similar to a giant display of fireworks in reverse.

Instead of the brilliant flares of soaring rockets in a faint, night-time fireworks, you saw black "flares" of crumbling rock and debris against a light gray "sky" of water spray and gases.

TV SHOW OF EXPLOSION BY CBC HELD 'GREATEST'

TV viewers were unanimous in calling the CBC coverage one of the greatest jobs of on-the-spot camera work ever seen.

The big, 25-inch telescope lens brought the blast right into thousands of living rooms.

A brief documentary film preceding the explosion showed how the tunnelling was done, and provided excellent background.

Sport Events Boost Bermuda Attractions

Springtime in Bermuda means flowers, mostly lilies. And it signals, among other things, the beginning of the invasion which happens every year of prep school and college students.

More than 4,000 vacationing young people will enjoy such activities as Rugby Week, boat cruises, tea dances and calypso band concerts—plus the usual swimming and bicycling.

The Jack Kramer professional tennis tour, featuring Pancho Gonzales and Lew Hoad will be at the Bermuda tennis stadium April 11-13, and on the 24th, the spectacular Bermuda floral pageant will be held.

There are many mainland residents who annually fly the 600-odd miles to Bermuda to be on hand for the beauty of the flowers presented in the pageant.

Annual payment of the cheapest rent in Bermuda is the centre of pomp and ceremony each April 23 in the Old Towne of St. George.

It's called the Peppercorn Ceremony, dates back to 1816, and involves payment of one peppercorn by the St. George's Freemason's Lodge to the governor of Bermuda for annual rent of the Old State House.

Five days later, an annual international yachting classic gets under way. It features sleek vessels from Canada, the United States and Bermuda.

This mid-ocean resort has five excellent golf courses, while many of the leading hotels and cottage colonies have their own tennis courts.

Fishing is marvelous, visitors state—shore, surf, reef or deep-sea.

All types of aquatic sports are in full swing from here on in this year. The coral reefs that encircle this 22-mile-long island chain make for perfect protected sunbathing, surf-boarding, water-skiing and skin diving.

Push bikes can be hired for $1.50 per day or $5 a week, or you can hire motor-assisted bikes for $4.50 a day or $25 a week.

Taxi rates are 28 cents for the first two-fifths of a mile and four cents for each subsequent fifth of a mile.

Colony-wide bus service is available, or a person can hire a horse-drawn carriage. And one of the most scenic, besides the ferry service, is by the Bermuda ferry service around the colony.

Bermuda has clean and colorful appeal, combining the warmth of the tropical south with the traditions of an old English settlement.

No Cabinet Changes Until PM's Return

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker plans no cabinet changes until his return to the capital from a Bermuda holiday.

Mr. Diefenbaker left Ottawa by plane today from Uplands airport accompanied by Mrs. Diefenbaker.

The prime minister attended church Friday and relaxed at his Sussex Street home following a strenuous day-long cabinet session Thursday.

After the meeting Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters there will be no announcement of cabinet changes until he returns from his Bermuda vacation scheduled for April 13.

The prime minister shrugged off a published report that Justice Minister David Fulton, who also holds the immigration and citizenship portfolio, will take over the finance ministry now held by Donald Fleming.

Later Mr. Fulton said there was no foundation to the report. Mr. Fleming said some reporters "haven't enough to do."

Mr. Diefenbaker indicated the first session of Canada's 24th parliament will open Thursday, May 8, provided all the writs declaring legality of Commons members are received here. He also indicated it is possible the session will not last beyond the end of July.

Before leaving he disclosed that support prices for four commodities will be announced Monday. They will be the first supports under the new Agricultural Prices Stabilization Act.

Letter Routes To Be Extended To Rural Areas

Extension of Victoria letter-carrier service to Belmont Park, Colwood and Langford has been authorized by the post office department, it was announced today.

This means post offices in these districts will be closed and replaced with sub post offices, located to provide adequate service regarding stamp sale, posting of registered mail and letters.

Street letter boxes will be provided for mailing, and will be cleared twice daily on weekdays and once on Sundays and holidays.

When door-to-door delivery starts, all classes of mail will be delivered.

Regulations require that 90 per cent of homes be equipped with correct house numbers and a mail receptacle before letter delivery can be started.

A recent survey showed that to date only 70 per cent of the homes were equipped in this manner.

To get the service in operation, the postal authorities ask that homeowners without mail boxes or mail slots in doors make the necessary arrangements.

Belmont School Completes Plans For Annual Show

3 Boys Blamed For Fire Scare

DUNCAN—Three boys, two aged 10 and one seven, were believed responsible for lighting matches and tar paper under the floor of the $660,000 Cowichan High School Thursday which sparked request for investigation by the provincial fire marshal.

Fire Chief Pat Clarkson of the North Cowichan volunteer brigade said the boys were just adventuring.

"It is an interesting place for youngsters of their ages," he said. "They apparently lit matches and tar paper just to find their way around."

Earlier, the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver had been asked to investigate the possibility of attempted arson. The request will now be cancelled.

The boys got under the building through ventilation vents under the gymnasium.

There was no damage.

Cowichan Teachers' Strike Off

DUNCAN — The planned strike of Cowichan district school teachers is temporarily off pending recommendations of government conciliation officers.

It had originally been set for April 16.

John Homer, chairman of the board of trustees of School District 65, said today he had not yet received notification that the strike was called off. However, Mrs. W. S. Robertson, Westholme, president of the Teachers' Association, said no further action would be taken until the conciliation report was heard.

This opens the door for negotiations on salary.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q. Can a strawberry barrel be coated with wood preservative without harm to the plants? T.S. Duncan.

A. Wood preservative such as Cuprinol or Timber-Lox are standard preservatives for seed boxes, plant flats and cold-frames, and safe to use according to directions where plants are concerned. Tar products and paints should be avoided, at least on the inner surface.

Q. What is the best way of using poultry manure in the garden? Mrs. K.E. Gordon Head.

A. Poultry manure is quite strong for use directly with plants, and since the average home garden contains but a few hens the greatest good is found when the manure is added in layers to the compost heap. It will speed the decomposition of the vegetable waste, and a little manure will enrich a large amount of humus.

Q. Is it true that many of our common flowering plants are poisonous? If so, why do we still grow them? A. L. S. Duncan.

A.—Yes, indeed. Among the most commonly grown garden plants which are poisonous are Helleborus niger (the Christmas-rose), aconitum (monks-hood), pyrethrum (feverfew or painted-daisy), digitalis (fox-glove) and the seeds of laburnum (golden-rain tree). Electricity in itself is also fatal to animal life (and consequently to human life), yet we continue to use it, under proper control, every day of our modern lives. The same with these plants.

Soak Lawns Deeply For Best Results

It's sometimes fun to sit on the front steps idly watering the lawn. But it doesn't do the grass a bit of good. Give your lawn a thorough soaking at proper intervals. Plan your watering program for the coming summer. First, check your equipment. You'll need a hose longer than the distance between the outdoor faucet and the front porch. It should be long enough so that when used in combination with a sprinkler the water can reach large areas of lawn with a minimum of moving.

CARE REQUIRED

Whether you use plastic hose or rubber hose, remember that it's only as good as the care you give it. Plastic is lighter to carry, rubber more likely to stand up under rough handling. Turning the nozzle off while the house faucet is still on may cause a plastic hose to burst, and can weaken the rubber variety. Neither should be dragged over pavement.

Once you've finished sprinkling, roll up the hose and store it on a reel or hang it where it will be out of the hot sun.

SLICERS

You can purchase menders or splicers that will join two sections of hose after the bad part has been cut out. Replace rubber washers in the hose fittings and sprinklers several times throughout the summer.

There are many sprinklers in the market—sprinklers that rotate, oscillate, "walk" or just stand still. Pick one with a fine, rather than a coarse spray, but not so fine that wind will blow it away. Your sprinkler should cover a large enough area to make frequent moving unnecessary. And it should work equally well at low or high water pressure. Soak the lawn to a depth of about four inches. Then, depending on the weather, you can forget it for periods up to a week. Light watering results in roots turning up to get moisture, makes them more susceptible to drying during hot spells. The grass experts are pretty well agreed that you won't burn the grass by watering it in the sun. But you'll have to sprinkle longer, since you will lose water due to evaporation.

Fir Plywood Dies For Party Coasters

Here is the way the die is made for casting party coasters. Shapes, cut with a jig saw, can be varied to suit individual tastes. And don't forget: colored cardboard can be used for striking effects.

Die-casts cardboard coaster and trays, renewable for every party occasion, can be produced at home with simple dies made of fir plywood. Die shapes may be varied, of course, to suit individual purposes and are handily cut with a jig saw. Junior can keep this family supply of these attractive party gadgets always up to date with a few minute work.

Pressure block, base block and matrix of the die for the coasters should be of 1/2-inch fir plywood, while the die itself is of 3/4-inch plywood. For larger trays 3/4-inch dies would be more suitable.

Here's how you or junior can go into production. Cut down piece of die but 1/2-inch oversize all around. Soak it in water until pliable. Form the coaster shape then clamp the dies together between the pressure block and the base block until dry.

The finished product may be painted or tinted any combination of colors to match table decorations. Striking effect may be obtained with bronzing powders.

At the cost of new cardboard additional coasters and tray can be made when new color schemes are desired.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q. Is there any easy way to clean a lawn mower and other yard tools?—W.C.

A. There are several degreasing sprays on the market. Follow spraying with a good hosing and then wipe parts with an oiled rag. Caution: don't use on motor units, unless manufacturer's instructions specifically recommend such treatment.

Q. The shoe of my iron is stained, and the iron is hard to push. Can it be repaired?—K.A.

A. To remove stain, polish the shoe with silver polish. Do NOT use anything harsher as, once shoe is scratched, you're out of luck. After polishing, set heat control on "low" or, for a non-automatic iron, let it warm but slightly. Pass iron once or twice over a piece of waxed paper.

SELF-SEALING'S SECRET

- 1 Special Self-Sealing asphalt adhesive, in wide even strips, gives maximum gripping power.
- 2 Because of Self-Sealing, each shingle is completely secured with only three nails—a major cost saving.
- 3 Moisture damage prevented by these escape channels. Scientifically placed, they prevent adhesive from showing on finished roof.
- 4 Vertical and horizontal aligning marks, plus tab-slot construction, make positioning easier and faster.
- 5 Anti-stick strip faces adhesive in bundles... prevents shingles sticking together. Yet, when Self-Sealers are applied, it does not affect sealing action.

RANCHLINE Shingles with or without the new Self-Sealing feature are available in these lovely pastels: Nile, Bermuda, Tampa, Sahara, the new Eldorado also Snow-White and Jet-Black. See them at your local Barrett Dealer.
